WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—"We must wage peace continuously —with the same energy as they waged war."

Twelve years to the day and hour after the guns ceased firing on the western front, President Hoover advanced this thought today as a solemn obligation which the nation owes the memory of the dead and the well-being of those who survived the great war.

Solemn Obligation.
"A solemn obligation lies upon us," he said, "to press forward in our pursuit of those things for which they died. Our duty is to seek ever new and widening opportunities to insure the world against the horror and irretrievable wastage of war."

The president delivered the annual address to an organization engaged in a world-wide effort to promote peace through religious organizations, the World Alliance for International Friendship through the churches, now in annual conference in the Washington auditorium.

Appraises Progress.
Mr. Hoover appraised at some length the progress that has been made in promotion of peace since the war twelve years ago. He cited

PA NEW C OBSERVES

Weather conditions today are typical of Armistice Day. A slight drizzle of rain was evident early this morning, and there has been dampness in the air the greater part of the day. Weather conditions such as today existed on the original Armistice Day, in New Castle. At that time there was prevalent a flu epidemic that made conditions very serious.

Armistice may be only a nine-letter word, but to the whole world it carries a meaning. Hundreds of New Castle buddies, garbed in battle uniform, marched in the parade today, while other hundreds, not marching, stood pondered just as deeply the events of 12 years ago.
On the street everyone recalled the vivid Armistice.

Several stores displayed mementos of the war, one showing the front page of The News of November 11, 1918. Headlines shouting the war's end couldn't be made large enough.
—Everything was devoted to the Armistice.

Veterans who had been fighting in the front line trenches recalled their feelings on that day. One remarked he didn't think he was alive from the sudden way the firing stopped. Another got sick because—well, he was another who couldn't imagine it being true.

With the week ending October 30,
the Pennsylvania State Highway Department had completed 125.83

Armistice Day Seen By Military Leaders

By GENERAL JOHN J. PERSHING
This is a day of hallowed memory.
Twelve years have elapsed since the ending of the greatest war of all time.

For America they have been years of peace and progress. It is well to recall on this day that these benefits have come to the American people through valor and heroism on soil that is the richer for the blood they gave it.

The dead comrades rest peacefully. For the living there remains the obligation of carrying on, of adhering steadfastly to those ideals of peace and justice which have ever been the inspiration of our people.
May there never be another war.
But it is the duty of the living veterans of the great war so to guide the destinies of this nation that should war come it will find the American people prepared, materially and spiritually.

By PATRICK J. HURLEY
Secretary of War

On this day we express affectionate remembrance of those with whom we served and pause to pay homage to those who suffered and died for the victory we commemorate.

We solemnly pledge our support to our nation in peace. More than half the world is in revolution. It should be our purpose to keep our own nation tranquil and to maintain the principles of freedom, justice and democracy which have been worth fighting for and which have made us a great and happy nation.

By GEN. CHAS. F. SUMMERALL
Chief of Staff

When the thunder of the guns died down to nothing twelve years ago, our nation rejoiced but was not surprised. We felt a thrilling access of relief that the letting of blood had ceased, that a long travail of suffering was over; but we had never doubted the issue. America's way is a path of victory. No obstacles, material or immaterial, work of men or work of nature,
have ever stayed our progress. Armistice Day is a day of rejoicing; it is also a day of dedication. It gives us the opportunity to resolve highly that the patriotism, the devotion and the valor which brought us victory in war shall continue to work for the advancement and happiness of our country.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—With memory undimmed by the passage of the years, the British nation today bowed its head in silent tribute to the million Englishmen who fell in the World War.

From King George and Queen
Mary down to their humblest subjects, the entire nation fittingly observed the twelfth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice at 11
a. m. British time (6 a. m. Eastern Standard Time).

Two-Minute Silence.
A two-minute silence, during which every form of transportation except the railroads was halted and even the telephone and telegraph systems were stilled, commemorated the actual moment of the signing.

As in former years, the nation's largest and most impressive ceremony was witnessed at the Cenotaph, the national war memorial in statue Whitehall. The Prince of Wales, King George, the Prince of Wales,
the British cabinet and Dominion premiers, high officers of the navy, army and air force and thousands of the general public assembled to pay tribute to the fallen.

From a balcony overlooking the memorial Queen Mary and the ladies of her court witnessed the moving ceremony as King George placed the royal wreath on the gray stone monument, which has its only inscription the words—"To The Glorious Dead—1914-1918."

Germany Fails To Observe Day

Only Brief Accounts In Ger-

mistice Day

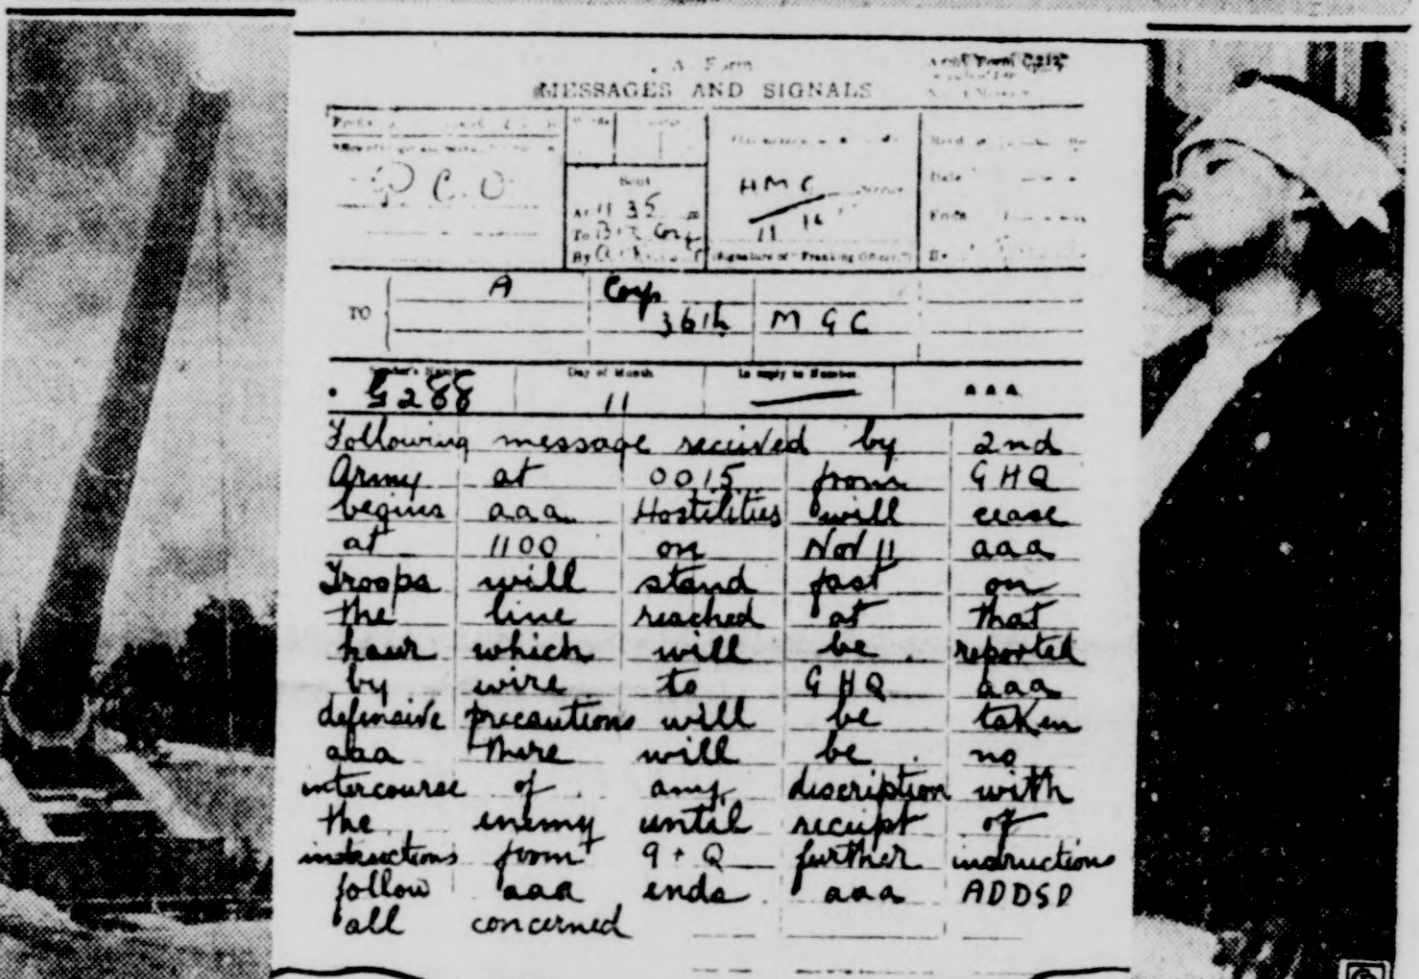

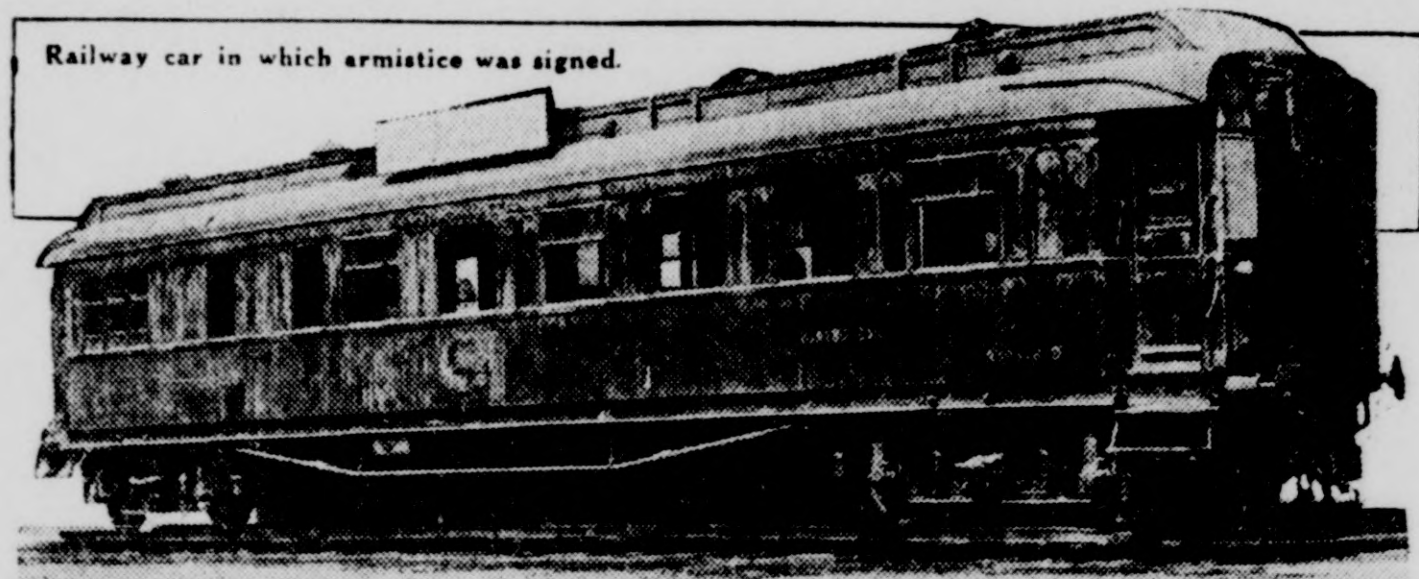

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Nov. 11.—With the exception of brief accounts in the German Press of ceremonies in other countries, Armistice Day passed off virtually unnoticed in Germany today.

Germany has never observed Armistice Day, tribute being paid to this nation's war dead on November 19, the day of repentance, when church observances are held.

The newspaper Vossische Zeitung published an article describing how the day is observed in other lands.
"In Germany," the newspaper declared, "November 11, on which the onous Armistice term were imposed upon us, which later were embodied in the treaty of Versailles, has never been observed as a day on which the horrors of war ceased and the world laid down its arms."

PICTORIAL MEMORIES OF FIRST ARMISTICE DAY

Twelve years ago, today, the world was delirious with joy when word came that an armistice had been signed at 11 o'clock in the morning, putting an end to the struggle which had ravaged Europe for four years. Above, is the railway car in which the armistice was signed and the official dispatch which carried the news to the soldiers in the trenches.

THOUSANDS WATCH VETERANS' PARADE IN DRIZZLING RAIN

Three Counties Share In Celebration Here, Mer-

Once again the methodical tread of marching feet, the stirring strains of martial music and the clup clup of cavalry horses were heard on the streets of New Castle today. The olive drab uniform of the infantryman mingled with the forestry green of the marine, and beside them both the blue of the salt sea sailor. It was the celebration of the Armistice, the twelfth reminder of the close of that carnage called the World War, a public demonstration of the spirit of the men and women who served.

It seems useless to compare today's parade at 11 o'clock with any other that has ever been held here, for there never was a parade just like it. Not only were the New Castle ex-service men in line, but their buddies from the cities and counties surrounding, men who had lived near the wire entanglements of the front line, men who had been the policemen of the sea, men who had lived and served and suffered for the Stars and Stripes.

The parade was the inauguration of the Mercer-Butler-Lawrence County observance of the day.

Rain Fails To Hinder
The weather could have been not even a chilling drizzle that brought back memories of the mud of Flanders could dampen the ar-

up, shoulders square, eyes front, feet moving up and down rhythmically they passed in review, impervious to the rain that slobbered down their collars, forgetful of the drizzle that played havoc with drum heads and bugle mouth pieces, intent upon nothing else than presenting the same military formation they did when they passed in review at Col-ombes les Belle, or Camp Lee or Hancock or wherever they served.

It was an inspiring sight, a sight

There'll come a day when those there'll come a day when the man

Belgian Cabinet Members Resign

King Albert Expected To Call For New Cabinet Formation Immediately

(International News Service)

BRUSSELS, Nov. 11.—The cabinet of M. Henri Jaspar, prime minister of Belgium since November, 1927, resigned today.

The entire cabinet decided to resign after its five Liberal members were obliged to tender their recognitions as a result of criticism from the Liberal political federation.

The Liberal ministers were criticized by their party for their action on many recent issues, particularly for their stand on the Flemish language controversy, which revolved about the teaching of the ancient tongue in the University of Brussels and other Belgian schools and colleges.

King Albert is expected to call upon a successor to M. Jaspar to form a new cabinet immediately.
There is a possibility that the resigned premier himself may be asked to form another ministry.

Rockne May Go To California

Knute Rockne Said To Be Considering California University Offer

WILL SEEK TO REGAIN HEALTH

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 11.—Knute Rockne may become University of California football coach.

This sensational report gained headway on the campus today when it was rumored that the famous Notre Dame mentor looks with favor on a future residence in sunny California.

It was declared the condition of Rockne's health may cause him to accept now the berth he turned down when "Nits" Price was named the Golden Bears' tutor.

Already, it is reported that a group of influential alumni has approached Rockne and is said to have found him in a "receptive state of mind."

When Rockne was suggested as coach after the death of Andy Smith, he announced he never would leave Notre Dame, his alma mater.

Precarious health and "Pop" Warner are reported to be influences causing him to change his mind.

Warner has been Rockne's bitterest football enemy for many years. Warner is the leader in the anti-shift school of football and is responsible for much legislation aimed to lessen the efficiency of the Rockne system. He is given credit for forcing into the football rules book the full second stop now required for shifting teams.

Several Fires In Pittsburgh Area, Damage Is $15,000

Firemen In Pittsburgh District Kept Busy As Result Of Many Fires

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Nov. 11.—Damages totalling almost $15,000 were estimated today as the result of several fires in the Pittsburgh district.

Included in the buildings torn by flames last night were a synagogue in 1 Braddock, two dwellings and a storage building in Mt. Oliver.

Braddock firemen battled for three and a half hours before getting under control. Flames which threatened to destroy the synagogue of the congregation Ahavath Achim. Sacred altars and ceremonial equipment were damaged by the blaze, and the total loss is estimated at $4,500.

Six persons in East McKeesport were forced to flee to safety when their farm dwelling burst into flames last night. Firemen, hampered in their work by an inadequate water supply, succeeded in saving a second residence and two barns containing among other stock 50 head of cattle. The loss was placed at $3,500. Philip Masor is the property owner.

A $4,000 fire in Mt. Oliver also gave firemen much trouble. The two-story storage building of John Seebacher was destroyed by flames last night. Seebacher, attempted to put it out with a garden hose.

The residence of John Eckles suffered losses amounting to $1,000 when a blaze of undetermined origin broke out last night. Three of the members of the family were in the residence at the time.

Everburning Light To Honor Conan Doyle

(International News Service) LONDON, Nov. 11.—Plans were in hand today for the erection of a fitting memorial to Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, the famous creator of Sherlock Holmes and spiritualist leader.

According to Lady Doyle, the novelist's widow, the memorial will take the form of a great building in London to be a world center for the spiritualist movement.

An American suggestion that the building should have a tower with a permanent light at the top has been enthusiastically received by Lady Doyle.

"I should like this memorial building to have a dome with a naked flame burning day and night to symbolize the burning faith and ever-astounding of our belief," said Lady Doyle. "We hope that the work in connection with the memorial will win shortly, and that people of all countries will respond to the appeal which is about to be issued."

You're the JUDGE

The supposition was that mild-mannered Mr. Timpkins was not quite so mild-mannered in the treatment of his wife. Anyway, one day Mrs. Timpkins took their young son and left the home of her husband and went to the home of her father. Soon she sued for divorce.

The court awarded Mrs. Timpkins her divorce and also a small monthly sum for the support of the son. But Mr. Timpkins completely ignored the lawyer's fees and the monthly award. Meanwhile the young son grew ill and died. The news reached Mr. Timpkins and affected him visibly. Through an emissary he sent word to the father of his former wife asking whether he might attend the funeral of his young son. But the father, angered by the neglect Timpkins had shown both to the baby and to his mother, peremptorily refused the request.

The funeral was held without Timpkins, but he was genuinely grieved, and soon after that he filed suit against the grandfather.

miles of road projects. Most of the state projects for the year have been completed but there are still a few miles on various roads to be finished before winter sets in.

Pa Newsc noted that quite a few patriotic citizens had their flags out soon after daylight this morning, decorating up for the biggest day the Ex-service men have had here since their return home.

For some reason or other, the atmosphere has seemed more smoky than usual during the past few days. A heavy bank of coal smoke has hung over the city for the past few days which is particularly noticeable at night.

Although a heavy fog cloaked the city early this morning legionnaires from surrounding counties arrived here early to participate in the Armistice day parade. Highway patrolmen reported they had received no news of accidents along the highways.

Autoists are requested not to park their cars in the downtown business section streets after midnight. The city street sweeper will be in operation. Cars which are parked in some cases locked interfere with the sweeper's operation.

Councilman Stanley Treiser has threatened to have the police bring arrest of drivers who overload trucks. The material drops to the ground and when pieces of coal and rock fall to the street they are run over and sometimes are sent flying through costly windows.

Pa Newsc is still wondering what happened to the wheel on that wagon Monday evening. The wagon stood on East Washington street, on the hill, and the driver of the team stood looking perplexed at the place where the wheel should have been. Pa Newsc looked too, but there was no wheel to be seen. Perhaps it rolled down hill.

One group rode downtown to view the parade this morning on a motorcycle—there were six riding along on the cycle and the side car.

Traffic was managed well during the march today, patrolmen of the state highway department co-operating with city officers in their effort to avoid congestion. Officers were posted at each end of the downtown district and directed cars to back streets.

A few years ago when the stars and stripes passed by in a parade every man stood with hat off, but today this respect to the flag was shown by very few. Pa Newsc even saw some soldiers in uniform on the side line that did not salute as the flag passed.

HOOVER STRESSES PEACE EFFORTS IN ARMISTICE SPEECH

The Kellogg pact for the outlawry of war, in which 58 nations have now joined; our own arbitration treaties with virtually all the nations of the world; the setting up of such institutions as the League of Nations and the World Court, and the London Naval Treaty.

In connection with the court, Mr. Hoover merely said that "its permanence is assured and from it there is steadily growing a body of precedents, decisions and acceptance of law in the formulation of which we should have a part."

He made no mention of his own immediate plans of re-submitting the court issue to the senate, where a controversy awaits it.

Must Co-Operate. While he emphasized that it is America's duty to cooperate with the rest of the world in the preservation of peace, the president also emphasized that the basis of this cooperation must be essentially different from that of other nations.

"The security of our geographic situation," he said, "the traditional freedom from entanglements in the involved diplomacy of Europe, and our disinterestedness enable us to give a different and in many ways a more effective service to peace."

"The nations of Europe, bordered as they are by the age-old dangers of which we in the western hemisphere have little appreciation, beset as they are by long-inherited fears, believe that they must subscribe to methods which in the last resort will use force to compel nations to abide by their agreements to settle controversies by pacific means. We, in our great state of safety and independence, should make no criticism of their conclusions which arise from their necessities."

Friendly Offices. "But we believe that our contribution can best be made in these emergencies, when nations fail to keep their undertakings of pacific settlement of disputes, by our good offices and helpfulness, free from any advance commitment or entanglement as to the character of our action."

"The purpose of our government is to cooperate with others. To use our friendly offices, and, short of any implication of the use of force, to use every friendly effort and all good will to maintain the peace of the world."

"The war that ended on this day 12 years ago taught us one thing if nothing else, and that is the blessing of peace, when we look back upon its splendid valor and heroism then displayed, when we remember the magnificent energies poured forth by young and old, when we recall the marvelous exercise of the greatest virtues that glorify the human race—selflessness, self-sacrifice, cooperation, both by men and women—we are looking not upon qualities which war creates but rather upon the traits of the human race which war makes seem more vivid by contrast with its own horrors. These same qualities are exercised, but are unused and unheralded, in time of peace, those who died displaying them would have displayed them living, and would have wrought their fruits into the enduring fabric of our peaceful destiny."

"We can only pledge ourselves, in honor of their memory, to the task of making ever more unlikely that our youth hereafter shall be denied its opportunity to devote its idealism and its energies to the constructive arts of peace."

STAR LORE

THE SPECTRUM AND HOW IT IS PRODUCED

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

Some of our young friends may not be familiar with the spectrum. It is that which is produced on a screen when radiation from the bright shining flame or body has been passed through a glass prism or has been reflected from a reflection grating. The glass prism is of the same principle as that of a prism on a chandelier that flashes rainbow colors. The light of a shining flame passed through a prism separates the beam of light into its constituent parts, each constituent part being displayed by its distinctive color. A reflection grating, reflecting the light of a shining flame, produces the same result.

ted and dined. They will be under the direct supervision of competent chaperons, and will have the care of doctors and nurses who will look out for their physical welfare from the time they leave New Castle until they return here.

They will leave here late Monday, December 22, and will be in Washington for three days, December 23, 24, and 25. On Christmas morning, they will be taken to the White House, where they will pose for their pictures, sing carols for President Hoover and his family, and in turn, will be greeted by the President.

They will board a special train out of Pittsburgh, which will carry them to Washington and return them to the same point.

All subscriptions in this contest must be for at least a period of three months, and must be paid in advance.

Opportunity Of Lifetime

This is an opportunity which does not come to every boy, and it is being offered to the newsboys of Lawrence county to win this coveted honor. Every penny of the cost of this pilgrimage will be born by The News and the Treadwell News Company.

Those desiring to compete are asked to turn in their names immediately to the Treadwell News Company, as only a month remains until the contest closes.

Any boys desiring further information in regard to the trip, the rules of the contest, etc., can secure the same at the office of The Treadwell News Company.

The News Company is arranging this trip for their two outstanding boys in conjunction with the other leading newspapers throughout the county, and it is expected that close to 5,000 newsboys will be the guests of their home town paper on this occasion.

The pilgrimage is sponsored by the Washington Times-Herald Boys Club, and they will be hosts to the boys while in Washington. The real purpose of the pilgrimage is to lead the boys to a true patriotism among the newspaper boys of America and to recognize the newspaper boys as a potential factor in our national life.

To Visit Shrines

The plan has been approved by President Hoover who will enter heartily into the program arranged for these boys.

Among the places to be visited by the boys while in Washington are Mt. Vernon, Washington Navy Yard, National Museum, the various national memorials, Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, Fort Myer, Cathedral Tomb of President Wilson, a visit to President Hoover and the Cabinet members.

It is going to be a real Christmas for two boys from the county and is something that is worth while competing for, so those expecting to enter the contest are urged to enroll at once.

(International News Service) COLORADO SPRINGS, Nov. 11.—Skiing on the sand dunes of Colorado is being much touted hereabouts as the latest development in outdoor sports.

Dr. H. N. Rastall, executive head of the Colorado Association; Fred Morath, president of the Adaman club of Colorado Springs; Carl Blaurock, Carl Arndt and Jerome Hart of Denver, and Ernest Corts of Philadelphia, Pa., are listed as the first known devotees of the sport. They recently returned from a scouting trip during which they tried out the big dunes, 20 miles east of Mexico and 30 miles northeast of Alamosa and are enthusiastic about the sport.

They reported there are many "50-foot slides available with good wind possible. The sand has little effect on the skis and the sport is practically as exciting as on snow."

Listed As Dead, But Marches In World War Ranks

(International News Service) BEDFORD, Pa., Nov. 11.—There was a humorous quirk at the corners of his mouth and a merry twinkle in his eye today as former Private John Lakas, of Kane, Pa., tramped with his buddies of over-seas days in an Armistice Day parade here.

The quirk widened and the twinkle became more pronounced when the line of march swung past the Bradford Memorial on which Lakas had been killed in action in France.

Lakas enlisted with Company C, 112th Infantry, at the outbreak of hostilities. He was wounded in action and listed as dead.

Before he was able to convince the folks back home that he really was alive, Bradford had erected the memorial to his war dead.

Lakas' name still remains on the shaft.

and navy departments and in projects which were necessitated by the war, such as maintenance of the veterans bureau and the payment of interest and retirement of the public debt.

Heavy Expenses. Figures available at the treasury showed the actual cost of the war's "hangover" last year to have been $1,493,000,000. Well over one fourth of all governmental expenditures.

Receipts, following wartime expenditures, including payments of principal and interest on the foreign war debts and disposal of surplus war materials, have been more than $4,000,000,000, while the government figures about $9,000,000,000 as the value of war assets. They include about $7,300,000,000 as the value of the war debts and other items such as surplus war materials.

This means a net war cost to this government of about $4,000,000,000. The public debt, which was less than a billion dollars before the war, rose to more than $23,000,000,000 in August, 1919. To date it has been reduced by about $10,000,000,000.

For many years to come hundreds of millions of dollars, will be spent annually before the cost of the war is actually paid off.

Bobbed-Hair Hits German Lace Trade

(International News Service) BERLIN, Nov. 11.—Women's craze for bobbed hair and a "boyish line" is indirectly responsible for a serious slump in the German textile and lace trade, says an economic expert in the "Berliner Borsenzeitung."

With the bobbed hair fashion the market for hair-nets was ruined, and with it thousands of home-workers in China who knitted the nets were doomed to starvation. A Chinese woman leader realizing the danger taught the Chinese to do lace work, and since then the world market is literally swamped with cheap Chinese laces, with which the more expensive German products cannot compete.

The craze of the "boyish line" caused a slump in the cocoa trade for the girls all over the world began to eliminate chocolate from their diet. As a result of this slump the chief cocoa producing countries like the African Gold Coast suffer from an over-production of cocoa, which they cannot get rid of, since cocoa however is mainly purchased in exchange to European textiles.

Thus, bobbed hair and the "boyish line" have hit hard the German lace and textile industries in Saxony and the Rhineland.

PROF. JOS. JASTROW ADDRESSES WOMEN

Man is the only animal that smiles, sheds tears and blushes. Prof. Joseph Jastrow, professor emeritus of the University of Wisconsin, as he addressed the Women's club Monday afternoon in the Highland U. P. church.

It was guest day at the club and the assembly room and balcony were filled with women eager to hear this eminent psychologist give his address on "The Psychology of Wit and Humor" and the subject was a fitting description of his talk as it was full of wit and humor and was presented in such a manner that the end came all too soon.

"Why do we laugh?" asked Prof. Jastrow, and then continued to give a short resume of what Freud, Veazson and Darwin promote on this subject. We laugh for pleasure, for fun, for an instinctive expression of our moods and a smile is first produced in an infant by tickling; the surfaces of the skin being highly sensitive to the slightest irritation causes this sensation and a smile is produced; then we laugh audibly as a relief of tension and pent up emotions; further, the ludicrous, the comic and the joke tend to produce a laugh, anything incongruous promotes mirth; a joke, if it is on some one besides ourselves, promotes risibility.

"What do we laugh at?" continued Prof. Jastrow, and then continued his discourse by telling that from the earliest history of man mirth was produced when something happened to a fellow being that caused him to look ridiculous or lose his dignity; teasing and the sense of superiority causes one to laugh at things or persons; clowning, fooling and joking as shown in our movies today are provocative of laughter; laughing with one is entirely different from laughing at one and when one is laughed with, it is an enjoyable sensation but when one feels he is laughed at, it brings forth a different feeling; ridicule and the ridiculous are further causes of laughter; surprise and shock leads to this way of relieving the feelings and very often in restraining other emotions a laugh is produced.

Wit is the intellectual humor and is expressed in many different ways including irony, satire, parody and the grotesque and may be expressed not alone in one subject but may be introduced into the arts, in cartoons and caricatures and to have a highly developed sense of humor is a great factor in human life.

Mrs. Charles Wallace and Mrs. Margaret Hice were hostesses for the afternoon and the meeting was presided over by Mrs. A. B. Street.

STAT COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 11—Pensate Jessie II today was just so many steaks and roasts in which science had little interest.

The famed cow, with a "window in her stomach" through which dairy research experts at Pennsylvania State College carried on observations and experiments on cellulose fermentation, became the property of a local butcher, destined for the slaughter block in a day or two.

Pensate Jessie II fell from scientific grace and place last week when she gave birth to a lively calf, ending her usefulness as a living test tube.

THE TWELFTH ANNIVERSARY

ALL the world over, hearts will be rejoicing this Armistice Day, anniversary of the cessation of hostilities in the World War. That was an event big and important enough to warrant the setting aside by law of one day a year to commemorate it. And it will be more important than now in the years to come when new generations will be forgetting or knowing only by reference to history of the momentous significance of that compact signed in the French woods bringing to an end a conflict that raged for four years and came closer to toppling civilization than any other event in modern history.

The natural impulse on Armistice Day is to enshrine deeper in the affection and admiration of the people the services rendered by the men and women who bore their parts in the struggle. There cannot be too much of that. For the American people or the people protected by the army and navy of any other nation to forget the sacrifices made would be hideous ingratitude.

Generations may get out of patience with the war veterans for this, that or the other thing, but as a group these veterans hold notes against the public which can and will never be paid in full. It is impossible to revive the dead and to restore the injured to full and selfsame bodily vigor. No measure wholly wipes from memory the terror and squalor of the trench, the madness of the barrage, the torture of the wounded. These things are given beyond hope of adequate repayment and it is the nation's duty as it is its desire to show in every reasonable way its gratitude.

But that gratitude cannot confine itself to mere words and flag-waving. Like as not the "doughboys" and the "gobs" believe that their country is appreciative of their services, but what they want is for their countrymen to establish in practice the principles these fighting men went to the trench and the camp to uphold.

Those principles envisage democracy, with all that word implies, the right of the people to rule, the sanctity of the ballot box so that the people can rule, the integrity in public office the observance of law and the enforcement thereof, the preservation of the home, the contentment of the people.

That is the vision of the Armistice Day of 1930.

The roll of drums and blare of horns, the thud of marching feet, the waving of flags, the huzzas of the populace all have a place in the picture but in the background dominating the whole scene is the command from Flanders' Field and other sacred spots to keep the faith, to hold aloft the torch, "be yours to lift it high." That is the message, undying and eternal, that gives to Armistice Day this and every other year its distinction.

AMERICAN RECOGNITION OF BRAZIL

Acting in accordance with precedent, the secretary of state has requested the American ambassador at Rio de Janeiro to call at the foreign office and announce that "the government of the United States is happy to continue with the new government of Brazil the same friendly relations it has enjoyed with its predecessors." This is a much simpler method of recognition than sending a new ambassador with fresh credentials. Mr. Morgan, the present ambassador, has received assurances from the new regime, which has now been established for a fortnight, that it will respect treaties and other international obligations. Since active opposition to it has apparently died out, there was no reason for withholding recognition.

The United States does not assume to dictate to its South American neighbors the kind of governments they shall have it is concerned only with their legality.

There is no reason why our relations with the new government should be less amicable because we were faithful to our obligations to the old.

A PERENNIAL ARGUMENT

The old debate between manufacturer and craftsman has broken out again, this time in "Creative Art." The manufacturer seems to have all the best of it. He points out that the factory is always in search of beauty and excellence, and that quantity production means the wide circulation at low prices of products skillfully and beautifully designed, even though they do not bear the marks of one man's chisel and hammer. The craftsman, says the manufacturer, has become a designer and by machinery he can give the world thousands of his creations instead of but one.

There is a good deal in this argument. But on the other hand, the fact remains that when every cobbler was a shoemaker and every blacksmith an artificer in iron, because necessity demanded, there was a greater proportion of skilled craftsmen than there is today. And the craftsman's argument is that this necessity for individual skill and thoroughness produced stronger characters, better artists, and a more valuable society than can be formed by an age which uses little brain-work and hand-work and spends its day pulling levers and seeing that there is enough oil on the bearings.

The argument will go on forever no doubt; and while it continues more and more of the world's work will be done by machine, according to the designs of craftsmen. Some will be able to employ artists to build and furnish their homes, and others will buy factory products which they would have done without if there had been no machine production. And no doubt those who merely pull levers and oil the bearings will get their training in the values of life in other ways by the wise employment of the money that machinery brings them.

ARMISTICE DAY!

ACROSS the hills the bright light dies
With poppy red that flames the skies,
Midst poppy fields that bloom below,
Where purple shadows come and go,
There sleep the dead!
The soldier dead, each in his place,
With earth's clean cover o'er his face.
By day the flame of crimson sky,
By night, starlight's enfolding mystery,
No bugle call, no trumpet's note,
No reveille from cannon's throat,
Shall summon these whom death has met,
May God forgive, if we forget!

TALK SHOP!

Perhaps you've been told that you shouldn't Talk Shop. When you're talking to new acquaintances, when you're at a mixed social affair, you shouldn't talk about the things that interest you most. You Shouldn't Talk Shop. For if you do, you'll be impolite and people will think you have no manners and you'll be shunned as a social leper. If you Talk Shop.

What nonsense! If you don't talk shop you'll never be interesting, for Shop is the Most Interesting Thing in the World. It is what they are thinking, it's what is closest to their hearts.

Politics, Prohibition, The Weather. These were out of last and leave a vacuum between man and man. But shop does not wear out, for it is closely woven with life itself. If you'll let the other fellow Talk Shop, he'll listen while you Talk Shop. The engineer from his cab, the steevedore from the wharf, the sailor from the sea, the aviator from the clouds—all these have something to say. Bankers, Painters, Sculptors, Gold Miners, Pioneers, Policemen, Preachers, Football Players, Ticket Collectors, Salesmen, Farmers, Teachers, Actors, Mothers. If you'll let them Talk Shop, they'll tell you things you'll remember forever.

Because Shop is how we are getting along, what we are finding out about life. It's the thing you know that I don't know. It's the Secret of your Trade, the plum in the pudding, the penny that's hidden in the birthday cake. You start talking to a Dog-Raiser about dogs—and soon you're talking about wolves—next you're talking about lions—finally you get onto heredity and environment—then you're discussing twins and telepathy and mind-reading and people you know and strange things that have happened to you and the other fellow—and you discover, finally, that Talking Shop with a man who raises dogs has led you off into the fascinating mysteries of life. Talk Shop and you'll get some fun out of talking. . . . Don't let anybody shame you out of Talking Shop.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THEATRICAL GOLF COURSES

The wave of popular enthusiasm for miniature golf, one of the newest and most unique of American creations, has now reached far-away Australia.

Theater interests in "the laid down under" have made rapid progress in introducing the "pony" courses and are reported to have formed a new company with a capital of approximately $50,000 to be known as the Top Hole Miniature Golf Co. Ltd. The first links were opened in Sydney on September 5th at which time it was stated that other Australian cities almost immediately. The company plans to build a total of about 50 or 60 courses, some with nine and some with 18 holes, depending on the areas available.

Another theatre group announces that it will build 50 courses, and is commencing by turning the basement of the State Theatre, Sydney, into a midget course.

The price will be 24 cents for 18 holes and 12 cents for 9 holes. This company then intends to extend operations to Newcastle, Brisbane, Melbourne, Adelaide, Perth, the suburbs and, if the idea catches on, to the bigger country centers of Australia.

Other interests are also turning the basement of the Sydney Tivoli Theatre into a miniature golf course, and they will probably carry out the same operation in connection with other theatres owned by them.

Promoters of this new enterprise foresee that many benefits which they have seen resulting from the growth of miniature courses in the United States—such as employment for large numbers of persons, and the new demand for various materials—will also come about in Australia.

Motion picture people and producers and owners of theatre chains in the United States might take notice and by developing midget courses counteract the loss in theatre profits.

Symposium of Editorial Views By Newspapers of Nations on Important Subjects as Edited by Consolidated Press AssociationRaskob's Referendum Plan
For Wet-Dry Test DebatedNational Democratic Chairman Arouses Some Opposition
Because He Is Believed To Be Committed To Wet Cause, But Wins Some Approval

Suggestions made over the radio on subjects of national interest, by John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, are widely discussed, particularly the plan for a referendum on prohibition. While it is suggested that an accurate referendum might be difficult without being made a part of a political contest, the subject is seriously considered. One objection raised in various comments is that Mr. Raskob, as a wet, has an interest in only one side of the question. "His proposal for a national referendum," says the ROANOKE TIMES, "is interesting and will have the support of a great number of citizens who are not particularly interested as to whether the country is wet or dry, but who are thoroughly disgusted with existing conditions and anxious to see the situation straightened out. That paper, however, believes that 'Mr. Raskob is not the right man to lead the way, for his leadership will not be followed by many people who are willing to assent to some reasonable modification of the prohibition law, provided it is effected by the friends and not the enemies of prohibition.'"

"Mr. Raskob cannot qualify," says the COLUMBUS OHIO STATE JOURNAL, "would show beyond controversy how a majority of the people feel on the subject." The State Journal also makes the comment: "No informed citizen will pretend to be satisfied with existing conditions rampant bootlegging, open and flagrant violation of the law, and the general disrespect for many laws which has followed in the wake of prohibition enforcement."

"Not alone among Democrats, but equally among Republicans," according to the RICHMOND NEWS LEADER, "there is a feeling that the time is approaching when the country should be asked to restate its judgment of prohibition in the light of ten years' experience." The News Leader continues: "If a majority in Congress be found for a referendum, a way of having a referendum will be devised. It would not be binding on Congress. Not one dry State might be impelled by the registration of a wet majority in other States to modify its own prohibition code or to consent to the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. A referendum might be held and might produce no change whatever in the status quo. Yet many now contend that the country has a right to speak as a unit on a policy that is being applied to the country as a whole, and there is a belief that if it showed a wet majority, the referendum would be persuasive with many congressmen and, in time, with legislators in the dry states."

While observing that Mr. Raskob's suggestions for the 1932 campaign include action on the dry law, the SAN BERNARDINO SUN remarks: "Actually he did not demand repeal of prohibition. He suggested a referendum. However, his previous utterances on the subject make it plain what he means—he will require the Democratic party in 1932 to pledge repeal of prohibition." In San Francisco, the other day, it was suggested that the proposed new city charter make provision for the regulation of the saloon—in the event the saloon comes back. That shows how the wind is blowing. It is not moderation of prohibition that the wets really expect, but actual repeal and that means the return of the saloon. That is why many people, who are not particularly impressed with the defects of the present prohibition act, and it must be admitted that there are defects—refuse to get excited over the wet program. What the wet leaders propose to give would only make worse the evils of prohibition that do exist."

In criticism of the wet program, the LINCOLN STATE JOURNAL believes that the purpose is "to continue the present prohibition is abolished," that "the wet want only a referendum that will accomplish what they want, not one to determine what the sentiment of the public is." The State Journal also asks: "If the people by referendum abolished the eighteenth amendment, there would be nothing left for the dries to do but acquiesce in the result, or if the people by referendum refused to abolish constitutional prohibition, who is there to guarantee that the wets will abide by the decision? Does Mr. Raskob undertake to do that?"

Maintaining that each side would continue to make its demands if the country voted ten to one for the opposite side, the OKLAHOMA CITY OKLAHOMAN declares: "The referendum which has his cause derives from a moral sense and therefore is sacred." The liberal believes that his cause is founded upon the canons of freedom and cannot be compromised or surrendered. Each force is honestly convinced that it is fighting for a principle which cannot be surrendered without disastrous consequences to the republic. This irreconcilable difference is entirely overlooked by Raskob in his generalizations. He recognizes the cause of the liberals, but he ignores the real motivation of the reformers."

The conclusion that "it is unfortunate for the party that there is such divergence of sentiment between the executive head of the party in the nation and the leaders of the party in this and many other States," says as to the sentiment for a referendum: "The Volstead Act may be amended or repealed, but Congress without reference to the States or to vote of the people, and it may be said that only a majority of both houses would be necessary to do away with this act, which would virtually nullify the Eighteenth Amendment, unless some other act were adopted by Congress to provide for the enforcement of the amendment. It may be expected, too, that the Volstead act will be repealed or amended when and if the wets gain control of both houses of Congress, but not before. Doubtless that is the primary aim of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, which has spent almost as much money in the present campaign to secure the election of wet Senators and Representatives regardless of party affiliation, as both the political parties have spent to secure election of their candidates for the two branches of Congress." The Observer concludes that "most of the leaders of the party in North Carolina are unqualifiedly opposed to the Raskob program, so far as it applies to prohibition."

The BUFFALO EVENING NEWS feels that Mr. Raskob "has not set a noticeable example of adapting his mind to the thought which the people expressed in 1928"; that "he merely has redoubled his efforts to persuade them to reverse their judgment." The ROCKFORD MORNING STAR suggests that he "permitted himself to dream dreams," and that "his visionary powers are not handicapped by responsibility."

Summarizing the situation, the NEW ORLEANS MORNING TRIBUNE states: "Mr. Raskob's proposal of modification of the prohibition law to permit distribution of milder drinks through legal channels, subjects to a liberal tax. This tax he conservatively estimates would not only add enormously to public revenue but would also provide great markets for suffering grain-farmers, open new avenues to legitimate labor, while relieving the country of the materially-injurious effects of bad liquor now bootlegged, and of the morally-destructive effects of the more or less universal example of lawlessness set by bootlegging enjoying so wide a share of silent public toleration and even approval. It is significant in this connection that some of the commodity markets rose sharply in Chicago and elsewhere a few days ago on a rumor that the Wickham commission was about to report in favor of modification of the prohibition policy, and that the Hoover administration would follow such a recommendation. Yet this report was not authenticated at all."

THE PERSONAL YARDSTICK

Are you measuring up to your former ideals?

Or have you fallen from the standards you once established.

And why have you had a change of heart?

Certain things beckoned and you thought the future would be time enough to carry with a set platform. You wanted to "have your fling" and thought you would settle down after that and travel the route mapped out to attain the goal you set.

You never thought that self-control came in for consideration because you thought you could stop anytime and start by the original plan.

But have you ever tried to do so? You might be greatly surprised by the fight you would have to put up with yourself if you actually turned in another direction.

It would be much easier to extend the boundaries beyond which you should not go.

If you haven't put yourself to the test of abandoning some habit or line of effort which is not beneficial to you, just try it out and see how hard it is to break up habit of even short standing.

You may be greatly shocked by what such an effort will present.

Burton Plant Construction Big Employment Aid; Foresee Steady Expansion

One of the most effective answers to the unemployment question in this district has been given by the Burton Explosives Company, Inc., in the new plant which the company is building near Coverts Station. In an address delivered to the office organization of the company, in Cleveland, O., recently, J. S. Burton, president, outlined the new plant in the construction program sponsored by President Herbert Hoover.

The address of Mr. Burton comes at a time when business the world over is suffering from a severe slump. Among other things, Mr. Burton pledged the support of his company to the proposed waterway program which would slackwater the Beaver Mahoning and Shenango Rivers. A resume of his address follows.

Stabilizing Factor
The building industry is recognized as a powerful stabilizing factor in industry," he said, "and the efforts of our President to 'time the punch' of a drive on new construction, to meet the receding swing of the pendulum of general business, are having a marked effect on the well-known unemployment situation."

"Our own project, cutting down the ranks of idle workers by one hundred and fifty men in the New Castle area, is assisting in this National program by reestablishing the purchasing power of the four to six hundred people who comprise the families of these workmen."

"It is doing more than that! As we draw on the supplies which this area offers, in the way of lumber, steel, brick, cement, stone, glass, nails, hardware, sewer and water pipe, coal, paint, and so on, we are providing a turn-over for the vendors of these commodities, which in turn increases their purchases and payrolls.

Not Temporary Relief

"Furthermore, this is not a temporary palliative for dull business. All of the work done now, through our initial investment in plant and equipment, is but a fore-runner of steady work and steady pay and steady purchasing power of our organization."

"For I foresee the time when this company will be limited only by its vision, and its ambition to expand. The youth in years, and age in experience, of our organization will prove my prophecy that Burton Explosives, Inc., with a future well-rounded line of heavy chemical products, added to the initial explosive manufacture, will be the foundation-rock of a great industrial area around New Castle."

"To further this end, it is our intention to assist in every possible way the projected Lakes-to-Gulf waterway, of which our Mahoning River is an important link. The Government surveys now under way are not an idle gesture, and I predict the accomplishment of this tremendous undertaking in the not far distant future."

New Castle to Benefit
"New Castle will benefit greatly from this and other movements, tending to centralize manufacturing here, where coal, ore, chemicals, rail and water meet. Our Company must and will keep step in this impressive march."

"Over four hundred millions were spent in the first half of 1936, for public construction, than in the same period of 1929. This enormous increase is a striking testimonial to the confidence of the nation in the Hoover construction program."

"The total expenditure of $1,100,

000,000 was distributed: $360,000,000 for highways, $200,000,000 for schools, $105,000,000 for pipe lines, $130,000,000 for railway construction, $85,000,000 for bridges, $62,000,000 for public buildings, $50,000,000 for sewerage systems, $42,000,000 for water-front development and smaller amounts for water supply, lights, parks and incinerators.

"No one can gainsay the stabilizing effect this expenditure has had during general business recessions, such as the one from which we are now emerging."

More Postoffices

"Our Government is doing its part. Bill signed by the President in May, provides an increase of $230,000,000 for post offices and Federal buildings throughout the nation over the next ten years. The Rogers Bill, signed last December, appropriates $16,000,000 for hospitals for World War Veterans. The Phipps-Dowell Act increases Federal aid in State Highway projects to $375,000,000 over the next three years, and the Rivers and Harbors Bill appropriates $130,000,000 for waterway development such as that in which we are interested at New Castle."

Mr. Burton further stated that, in his opinion, the Burton Explosives Ins., had chosen the psychological time to enter the manufacturing field, because of the fact that conditions are almost identical to when the American Explosives Works was started by the Burton Interests in 1907.

In conclusion, he said: "The saying goes that 'history repeats itself.' We are going to prove the truth of that, to the benefit of the community of New Castle and our own organization, from laborer to executive."

Penn. Mother Knew Best

WISE mothers find the things that keep children contented, happy, well. Most of them have learned they can depend on one thing to restore a youngster's good nature when he's cross, fretful, upset.

The experience of Mrs. M. Smith, 2042 S. Salford St., Philadelphia, is a typical one. She says: "I have used California Fig Syrup with both my girls ever since they were just tiny babies. Whenever they're the least bit constipated or restless I give them a little. It has them comfortable, happy, well in a jiffy. Their splendid condition proves I knew best when I decided to use this wonderful preparation with them."

Physicians endorse the use of pure vegetable California Fig Syrup when bad breath, coated tongue, dullness, nervousness, listlessness, etc., show a child's bowels are in need of help. Weak stomach and bowels are toned by its gentle aid; appetite increased; digestion and assimilation are so assisted that weak, undernourished children quickly improve in weight, strength and energy.

The genuine always bears the word 'California.' So look for that when buying. All druggists have it.

Prejudices Difficult To Remove

Physicians' Problems Are Related By Clendenen

By LOGAN CLENDENEN, M. D.

There is an old quip doctors fling every now and then at one another. They have heard it said so often by some patient's friend or relative:

"His arm can't be broken, doctor; look, he can move his fingers."

It means of course, that doctors all know that the arm can be broken even though he can move his fingers. It is simply an instance of one of the thousand prejudices that the doctor has to remove from his patient's mind before he can begin to help them.

Another is:

"It can't be rheumatism, doctor; we never give him any meat." I will go into that on another occasion.

A nose and throat doctor of my acquaintance who is also a scholar and a gentleman, told me of an instance of a mother bringing him her little girl for the purpose of having the tonsils out. It comes under the same head of the patient having been convinced beforehand of the advisability of a certain procedure, the wisdom of which was quite debatable.

It also teaches a gigantic lesson about the effect of the present strenuous age. We assume modern life breaks down only adults. It affects children.

In this particular instance the tonsils were to be taken out because of chorea (St. Vitus dance). It is a sufficiently good reason, but only when the acute stage of the disease has passed. In this case the poor little child was twitching nervously all the time.

But the history the nose and throat man extracted was the interesting part of the story. The child was only six and had been sent to a school at the age of four. Three afternoons a week she had been taking piano lessons. She could recite many of the poems of Don Marquis, Eddie Guest and (appropriately enough) Hamlet's soliloquy "To be or not to be." Finally, at least three nights a week the parents took her to the talks. All at the age of six. And the mother blissfully supposed her tonsils were the only things that were making her nervous.

You see, it would have been so easy for my nose and throat friend to have removed the tonsils. It was really a job to elicit that history. Even a harder job to persuade the mother that a reconstruction of her whole plan of living for the child was more important than a piece of surgery.

When I consider all their temptations, I marvel that doctors are half as decent as they are.

Plane Design Work Begins At Y. M. C. A.

Boys Will Be Taught Airplane
Design And Construction;
Join A. M. L. A.

The first crafts of the Y. M. C. A. will be launched at the institution this evening at 8 o'clock, when an airplane building and model design club will be formed. Boys' Work Director Thomas announces: "Whether or not a member of the association, any boy is entitled to become a member of the newest club. The new venture will hold interest to scores of boys who participate in club work. For some time there has been increasing demand for craft work in the institutions throughout the country. The modern of these is airplane building and design."

The purpose of the Airplane Model League of America in which the local "Y" plans to become chartered, is to interest and educate the youth of America in the science of aviation. This is being accomplished by directing attention to the study of aeronautics, supplemented by a course in the building and flying of scientific model planes.

Nationally known aviation authorities encourage the work of the league. Among them are such famous fliers as Commander Richard E. Byrd, Clarence Chamberlain, Maj. Thomas G. Lamphier, Griffith O'Brien, Ellis Alvan Macaulay, Eddie Stinson, Eddie Rickenbacker, Frank Tichenor, Merrill Hamburg.

The first work of the new club will be the construction of the R. O. G. Later a seaplane, amphibian and other models will be constructed. Club headquarters will be in the banquet rooms this evening. Any boy wishing to join the group will be given a card and pin free.

Mr. Thomas states there will be no cost to the boy, except for material used in the construction of the models.

A PROBLEM IN SIMPLE ARITHMETIC

"MAKING" a fire insurance rate, and "computing" it, are two very different things. The property owner helps to make it by maintaining certain conditions, good or bad, which in part determine what the rate must be. The trained experts of the inspection bureau for your locality, after surveying those conditions, compute the rate after giving credit for good points in the risk and making charges for the ones that constitute fire hazards.

Structure, occupancy, character of private and public fire protection, exposure from other property, general loss experience: These are some of the things the inspector takes into account when measuring a risk for the purpose of computing the rate.

Surveys and Counsel Available
Instead of attempting to handle fire prevention problems your own way, seek the counsel of the inspection and rating bureau for your locality. Its officials and employees will be glad to help you without charge.

The agent who writes your insurance, or your insurance broker, can tell you just how to reach the inspection organization serving your community.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE

companies solicit your interest in this matter. These companies generally prefer risks eligible to a low rate rather than those which must carry higher rates. The stock companies support the inspection and rating organizations and, through the National Board of Fire Underwriters, publish information upon which risk measurements are based.

In Pennsylvania fire insurance rates are computed by the Underwriters' Association of the Middle Department, Philadelphia Fire Underwriters' Association (Philadelphia only), Philadelphia Suburban Underwriters' Association, and the Fire Underwriters of Allegheny County (Pittsburgh and vicinity) with their extensive staffs of trained engineers.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Few persons really "live" in Tammany Town. The "Six Million" as O. Henry called them, spend their days in makeshift accommodations. No one, not well acquainted with them, would think, to see them racing and leaping up and down the narrow island, that each, in his heart, is longing for a dream—a dream that deals with some distant day when, freed from the tyranny of the Big Town, they'll be able to pack their books, sauce-pots and pictures, their rinks and dew-dads, and move far away to some "cleaner, greener land," where they may raise chickens and rubarb and sit out on the front porch nights, flirting with the Pleiades, with sufficient leisure at their command to salute a gentle memory or two.

New York is a storehouse of dreams—most of them busted.

SINGLE BLISS
Monsieur Joseph Bourgeois, genial, talented and urbane publicity genius of the French Line, encountered a devastating domestic experience recently.

Joe, who leads a life of single blessedness, inhabits a three-room studio in Chelsea Village. He does not entertain at home and, possessing an extensive wardrobe, augments the closet space by parking his non-seasonal underwear in the little, old-fashioned ice chest in the kitchenette. Since Joe has been living in the apartment a lump of ice has never desecrated that diminutive ice box, the shelves of which are plentifully sprinkled with canopier balls and cedar shavings.

Recently Joe's landlord installed new, automatic ice chests in all the apartments. Monsieur Bourgeois was not at home the day the artists reached his studio. They entered with the superintendent's pass-key, ripped out the old ice box, put in the new one, carefully removed the Worthy Brother's lard, red, woolen underwear and winter socks from the old place of storage and neatly packing them on the shelves

2 WAYS at once!

Mothers were first to appreciate the modern method of treating colds externally, because it avoids the constant "dosing" so upsetting to children's delicate stomachs.

Now millions of adults, too, prefer Vicks for their colds, because, just rubbed on, it brings relief two ways at once:

- (1) Its medicated vapors, released by the heat of the body, are inhaled directly to the air-passages, loosening the phlegm and easing the breathing.
- (2) At the same time, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice or plaster, thus helping the inhaled vapors to break up the congestion.

Peter's Adventures

UP LOOK-OUT HILL
Peter turned on his heel to run to the Ant Hill with the warning "The Red Ants are winning. Escape while there's time." When, suddenly, a thought struck him.

"Suppose Black Ant was wrong! Maybe she was so excited she didn't see things straight. Perhaps things aren't so bad with the Black Ants as she feared they were. Before I rush off to spread the said tidings I had better make sure I really know what I am talking about. I will only take a moment to climb up Look-Out Hill and with my own eyes see just what is going on. Busy told me to and that's just what I'm going to do."

Up the steep sides of Look-Out Hill Peter clambered and cautiously, oh, very cautiously—for how did the boy know who might be looking—peeped over the top. Shading his eyes from the bright glare of the sun, the boy gazed over the landscape. So far in the distance was the scene of battle that all the boy could make out was a writhing mass of bodies, red among the black, that swayed back and forth locked in death grips.

"Humph! From here it doesn't look as though the Black Ants were getting the worse of it. I should say the Reds were having a tough time holding the line. Looks to me as though the odds were even! Then Peter remembered something Busy had said.

"Never take chances." Over and over again the words rang in his ears. Maybe his eyes were receiving him! Suppose he should wait too long! That messenger had seemed so very sure!

The American Red Cross society was formed in 1881 under the leadership of Clara Barton, who acted as the first president. Congress, recognizing the important relations between the Red Cross and the army and navy in time of war, and the importance of a thoroughly national society, by special act, approved Jan. 5, 1905, dissolved the society then existing and incorporated a new organization to be operated under government supervision.

In order to get revenge, Jesse joined Quantrell's guerrillas and soon earned a name for reckless daring. He was outlawed in 1886. Finally Governor Crittenden of Missouri offered a reward of $10,000 for his capture, dead or alive, and tempted by this bribe, two members of his own band, Robert and Charles Ford, killed him in his home, at St. Joseph, Mo., April 3, 1882.

W. C. T. U.

When, where, and by whom was the Woman's Christian Temperance Union founded?

The W. C. T. U. had its origin in the great temperance crusade of 1874. A call was issued from Chattanooga in August of that year, signed by Mrs. Mattie McClellan Brown, Mrs. Jennie Fowler Willing, Mrs. Emily Huntington Miller and others, summoning a national convention of temperance women to be held in Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 17, 1874. Sixteen states were represented at the convention. Conventions have been held annually since then.

MISSION WORK

Editor, News:

As the day of Thanksgiving draws near with the home coming of loved ones and our hearts go out in gratitude to our Lord and Master for the many blessings given us throughout the year, I am just wondering how, and where some of our less fortunate in our city will spend the day.

There will be many family reunions on Thanksgiving Day in our city and I can imagine the delightful gatherings with elaborate dinners, the big feature of the day in the warm cheerful homes of our city. Then my mind goes out to the stranger and unfortunate within our gates. What of our neighbor who perhaps, the sad school of experience has lost all hopes with all sunshine cast out of his life wonders after all if life is worth living.

There is where the work of our city rescue mission stands out as a beacon to welcome such tired souls and help God's unfortunate. With kind winter at our door people come daily to the mission for clothing and mostly shoes for adults and children are asked for from the many donations received, the house committee is able to provide some food where needed in cheerless and cold homes.

At night the mission beds are filled with 20 men being cared for on Saturday night who came cold and hungry to ask for shelter. Surely the large box of sandwiches sent in by a kind friend were appreciated at this time. The missions here wishes to express its appreciation of the fine contributions from the Needle Work Guild.

A mother and five children were given warm clothing from this remembrance on Saturday, a family whose home was burned recently leaving them with nothing. Another pathetic case was that of a woman who had walked to the mission from Moravia to ask for shoes. Her feet were nearly bare and can you imagine the feelings of the lady in charge of the mission who had no shoes to give her?

She had sent her children to school that morning with no breakfast. There are so many coming to the house daily hungry—the house committee has decided to serve soup, coffee and bread on cold days or whenever possible to do so.

The house committee has also arranged to have a truck collect anything people can give to help the needy. Trucks will call on Tuesday and Friday. Just call 430. The little bank cans that have friends their way into our homes will be collected.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 25¢ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you mix it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the gum-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

ALLEGED PLOTTERS IN RUSSIA ARE PUNISHED

Seventy Russian Engineers Receive Harsh Punishment For Plot Against Soviets

Undetermined Number Found Guilty Have Been Put To Death By Agents

By EDWARD L. DEUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MOSCOW, Nov. 11.—Swift, harsh punishment has already been meted out by the Soviet government to 70 Russian engineers implicated in an alleged international conspiracy to undermine Soviet Russia, it was learned here today.

An undetermined number of the 70 found guilty of participation in the alleged plot have been put to death by agents of the OGPU or Soviet secret police. The remainder were sentenced to prison terms.

An indictment prepared by Nikolai V. Krikenko, attorney general, names a total of 2,000 persons alleged to have been implicated in the conspiracy. Krikenko alleges a group of European nations led by France fostered the conspiracy with the partition of Soviet Russia as its aim.

Public trial of the remaining defendants is to begin shortly.

Complete Domination
The document charges that the aim of the alleged conspiracy was the complete domination of Soviet Russia by France, Poland, Roumania, Estonia and Latvia, with these nations later partitioning the vast Soviet Republic among themselves.

The indictment alleged that the organization operated "in direct collusion with the French general staff, former Premier Poincare and former Premier Briand." A council of former Russian industrialists and concessionaries headquartered in Paris was named as the guiding force behind the conspiracy.

Unrest Promoted
Poincare, Krikenko charges, induced the French general staff to create a special anti-Soviet war commission, on which Poland, Roumania and England were represented. The former premier urged the council to "promote unrest" in Soviet Russia, after which Polish, Roumanian, Estonian and Latvian forces, supported by French munitions and officers, would invade Russia, the indictment alleged.

The invasion was said to be scheduled for the summer of this year.

If successful the invasion was to end with the partition of Russia. The indictment continued, England getting the Caucasian oil fields, while Poland, France and Roumania divided the Ukraine.

In naming former Premier Poincare and M. Briand, now French foreign minister, Krikenko charged that French agents in Moscow since 1928 have "plotted war against the Soviet and effectively sabotaged the Soviet coal, steel and textile industries."

Nearly Three Hundred Motorists Arrested In "Not Inspected" Drive

Pittsburgh City Police Aid Motor Patrol In Rounding Up Motorists

Officials Aroused By Epidemic Of Fatal Automobile Accidents

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Nov. 11.—Thoroughly aroused by the epidemic of fatal automobile crashes which resulted in nine deaths over the week end, state and city police today intensified their drive to arrest and punish all motorists whose machines do not bear the official "inspected and approved" sticker of the Bureau of Motor Vehicle. Within a few hours yesterday the officers, working in pairs—one city policeman to each state highway patrolman—rounded up and arrested 284 motorists within the city limits.

The arrests, however, were not confined strictly to cars not bearing the stickers, every infraction of the motor vehicle code resulted in prompt arrest of the drivers speeding, failure to stop at through highway intersections, overloading of trucks and other violations of the law brought quick retribution in the form of arrest and fines.

Many Pay Fines.
All but eight of the nearly 300 arrested paid fines ranging from $5 to $25. Another angle of the safety drive developed when police declared they had learned that many Pennsylvania motorists whose licenses had been revoked had gone to Ohio, where no drivers' licenses are required, and had purchased their license plates in the Buckeye state.

These drivers will be prosecuted, police said.

Pittsburgh motorists were given a week's grace beyond the November 1 time limit to have their cars inspected and approved. Those who did not take advantage of the grace period felt the heavy hand of the law today as state police descended on masses on the city and suburbs to see that cars without stickers were taken from the roads.

Practical Joker Causes Death Of Man In New York City Lunch Wagon

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—A man was killed today because a practical joker falsely told a policeman that a lunch wagon was being held up.

The dead man was Thomas Ottati, 32, a taxicab driver. He was paying for his supper in a lunch wagon when a policeman looked in the window and fired several shots.

Ottati died on the way to the hospital.

The policeman who had been misinformed that a hold-up was in progress in the lunch wagon later verified the fact that Ottati was not holding up anyone. He had no weapon of any kind on his person.

The practical joker has not been found.

Will Intern Kaiser Now In Holland

(News that gladdened hearts of Lawrence County citizens twelve years ago Today. Replica of part of first page of one of News extras of the morning of November 11, 1918.)

Sidelights On Parade

At 10:58 a. m. Fire Chief Charles H. Lynn signalled over the fire alarm system to the Carnegie Steel Company. That was the beginning of the city-wide plan of signalling. In the steel plant James Doyle of 1105 Holland avenue, a filter man, blew the fire signal, and every fire bell in each fire station was heard until 11:02.

Central Fire Station's B truck was decorated for the occasion, but did not take part in the parade. The truck equipment and fire fighting paraphernalia was re-arranged by firemen and a small flag placed on the top.

Just as the parade was past the diamond and the weather had cleared the monoplane from Bradford field was hurriedly prepared for flight. Earnie Meuser, took the controls and Joe Machino, was the passenger. The plane carried a huge flag. It followed the last remnant of the parade and circled over the city.

Captain Bowen and his 2nd Battalion, Headquarters Battery, 107th Field Artillery of Ellwood City, were here with 17 horses and 15 men.

Rain fell during today's Armistice parade but it failed to cool the ardor of the spectators.

State and city motorcycle policemen led the marchers and the spectators cooperated by retreating to the sidewalk.

Six mounted state policemen were at the head of the parade. They presented a fine appearance.

The colors and the color guard came along. New Castle high band drew an ovation from the spectators.

Ellwood City was present with a detail of the 107th field artillery.

There were oodles of drum corps and all of them went well. Several presented drills enroute.

Troop F, 103rd cavalry, got an ovation from the spectators.

George Washington junior high was in the second division. They marched splendidly for little chaps.

The National Women's Overseas Service League members were there.

Farrell band came along. The drum major must have been six feet or more tall.

The boys of '98 were in the line. It has been 32 years since they marched for Uncle Sam.

The Franklin delegation was headed by a Boy Scout who carried Old Glory.

Ben Franklin junior high band was in the third division and like other youngsters caught the eye of the thousands who thronged the thoroughfares.

New Castle had a big delegation of service men in the parade. Most of them were in uniform. They drew countless rounds of applause.

Joseph Black V. F. W. Post 2 were in the parade followed by a bevy of girls playing slide trombones.

And then came an ex-service man dragging a cannon. At Mercer and Washington streets he touched off the cannon and bang! A team following was to be unfettered and led to the "sidelines." One of the wheels of the cannon was blown off.

A band with boys no larger than midgets was next and then came the future cavalrymen of tomorrow.

The young boys were mounted on ponies. A number of girls were also riding ponies. They are to be the future nurses.

Floors were numerous. Most of them were beautifully decorated.

The Baltimore and Ohio presented the "Covered Wagon" and then there was an Honor float, followed by the Universal Sanitary display. Other floats streamed with bunting.

The Red Cross followed. It was a huge red cross in the middle of the truck which was decorated in Red, White and Blue.

A band came next. The bandsmen were attired in red spats, red coats and white trousers with red stripes.

Harry McBride Post, 522 had a float in the parade. It depicted the Orphan's Home.

Sons of Veterans occupied a float with a machine gun, banked with sandbags.

Marchers in tin hats which evidently had been bronzed followed. They had snap to every move.

Evidently drum majors were picked for height as the next drum corps that came along had a drum major who couldn't have walked under a bar placed at six feet.

And then—the only drum and fife corps in the parade. The sound of the fife floated through the air. A big crowd of young boys followed the corps which was from Sligo.

Just when it was thought the parade had been finished along came Sharon attired in blue uniforms and their caps tasselled in white.

Thousands craned their necks when the sound of a motor floated from the sky and they saw an airplane with the United States flag floating in the breeze. The plane encircled the city several times at a low altitude.

The medical corps was in the parade.

Roche post of Bradford was re-presented.

And then came the Sharon drum Corps stepping high and fancy.

It was the best Armistice day parade in years. In fact it savored of the kind staged here when the boys in march here today were "Over There."

One of the nice comments heard was that a big group of local ex-service men turned out.

Although the city police were on the job they had virtually nothing to do while the parade was on. Every person wanted to cooperate in making the parade something to remember.

The cadet band from the Sharpsburg, Pa., Knights of St. George arrived by bus—one hour too late for the start of the parade. But the group gathered quickly and pointed the parade in time to pass the reviewing stand on the diamond.

SMITH CENTER, Kas., Nov. 11.—Jake Bolin of Burr Oak not only is a brotherly sort, but enterprising as well.

After visiting his sister, Mrs. Opal Abernathy, near here, he also visited her home. Counting her nephews later Mrs. Abernathy discovered two were missing. Jake was arrested for the theft and fined $40. His only comment was: "Chickens seem to come high over this way."

L. B. ROUND

Much of the success of the Armistice Day Celebration being held today under the auspices of the former service men of Lawrence, Butler and Mercer counties is due to the energetic work of L. B. Round chairman of the Armistice Day committee.

Mr. Round, general manager of the New Castle District of the Pennsylvania Ohio system, is known far and wide as an organizer and one who accomplished the things that are needed in an affair such as the present celebration.

Excellent committees made possible the success of the present celebration with such leadership as Mr. Round was well able to give.

laid dormant, a sight that brought back with almost too much reality, those days of 1917 and 1918. And as they passed, that closely packed throng on the curb gave them the homage due them. Not a boisterous outburst, not the enthusiasm that marks a sporting event, but a reverent homage that comes from an appreciation of those who have served.

Parade Moves

As the fire whistle ceased blowing at 11:02 o'clock, the command was given by Major W. F. Jackson, chief marshal, and the greatest post war parade in the history of New Castle was on its way.

The rain, fortunately ceased before the parade had gone far and the last part of the demonstration was accomplished under much more pleasant conditions than the start.

Five motorcycle officers, Sergeant Garmow and Patrolman Rosenow of the State Highway patrol and Officers Augustine, Crisswell and Richards of the city force led the advance closely followed by a group of six mounted state police.

The motorcycle officers kept well in advance of the parade and cleared the way for the parade, when necessary. Every intersecting street was guarded by these motorcycle officers until the parade proper had arrived and made cross traffic impossible.

City police were stationed for the entire length of the parade route and had things well in hand.

There were many people all along the parade route, which was slightly more than three miles in length. Here they were in groups, there in automobiles stationed in convenient spots, but in every instance the finest of order was maintained and the people saw the parade from the sidewalks and the paraders were accorded the courtesy of the full width of the street.

Many Ex-Servicemen Out
Featuring the parade was the record number of local former service men of the entire district and especially of this city, who participated.

As the parade reached the reviewing stand, General Chairman L. B. Round, Parade Chairman Guy J. Wadlinger, District Deputy Commander H. H. Rosenthal, various aides and others viewed and saluted the various delegations and their colors as they passed.

As the various drum and bugle corps appeared at the reviewing stand, especially on the part of those, who are this afternoon competing in the prize contest at Taggart stadium, did some drilling that was a treat.

Weather condition and the dull dark conditions existing during the parade failed to dim the brilliancy of the display made by the many drum and bugle corps. And the dash and precision with which these corps in the flashy attractive uniforms of varied types, stepped to the music made the crowds along the route cheer and forget the dismal weather.

Outstanding Features

One of the outstanding features of the parade was the national guard units of Ellwood City, Grove City and New Castle, who with their natty well kept uniforms, well groomed horses, where they were used, lent a military bent to the affair that added much to its forcefulness and served to win commendation for the respective communities from which they came.

Major Jackson, chief marshal, his assistant chief marshals, Colonel Daniel McQuiston and Lieutenant John D. Kennedy and First Division Marshal Captain John B. Bretell and his assistants, Sergeants William Miller and Russell Melvin headed the parade on horses and presented a proper perspective for the parade that was to follow.

The colors and color guard, representing the various branches of the United States service followed the marshals. The came New Castle's pride, its Senior High School band, which never did better.

National guard units then followed. Second Battalion, Headquarters Battery, 107th Field Artillery (Mounted) Ellwood City, Troop F, 103rd cavalry, New Castle, The Bradford V. F. W. Drum Corps, Company D, 112th infantry and Medical Company 112th Infantry, both of Butler.

Then came cars conveying General Chairman L. B. Round, Congressman John E. Rankin and other guests of the day.

Bishop-Shannon Post Drum Corps of Evans City then came in the formation and was followed by local G. A. R. members in cars, city and county officials and the Grove City Drum Corps.

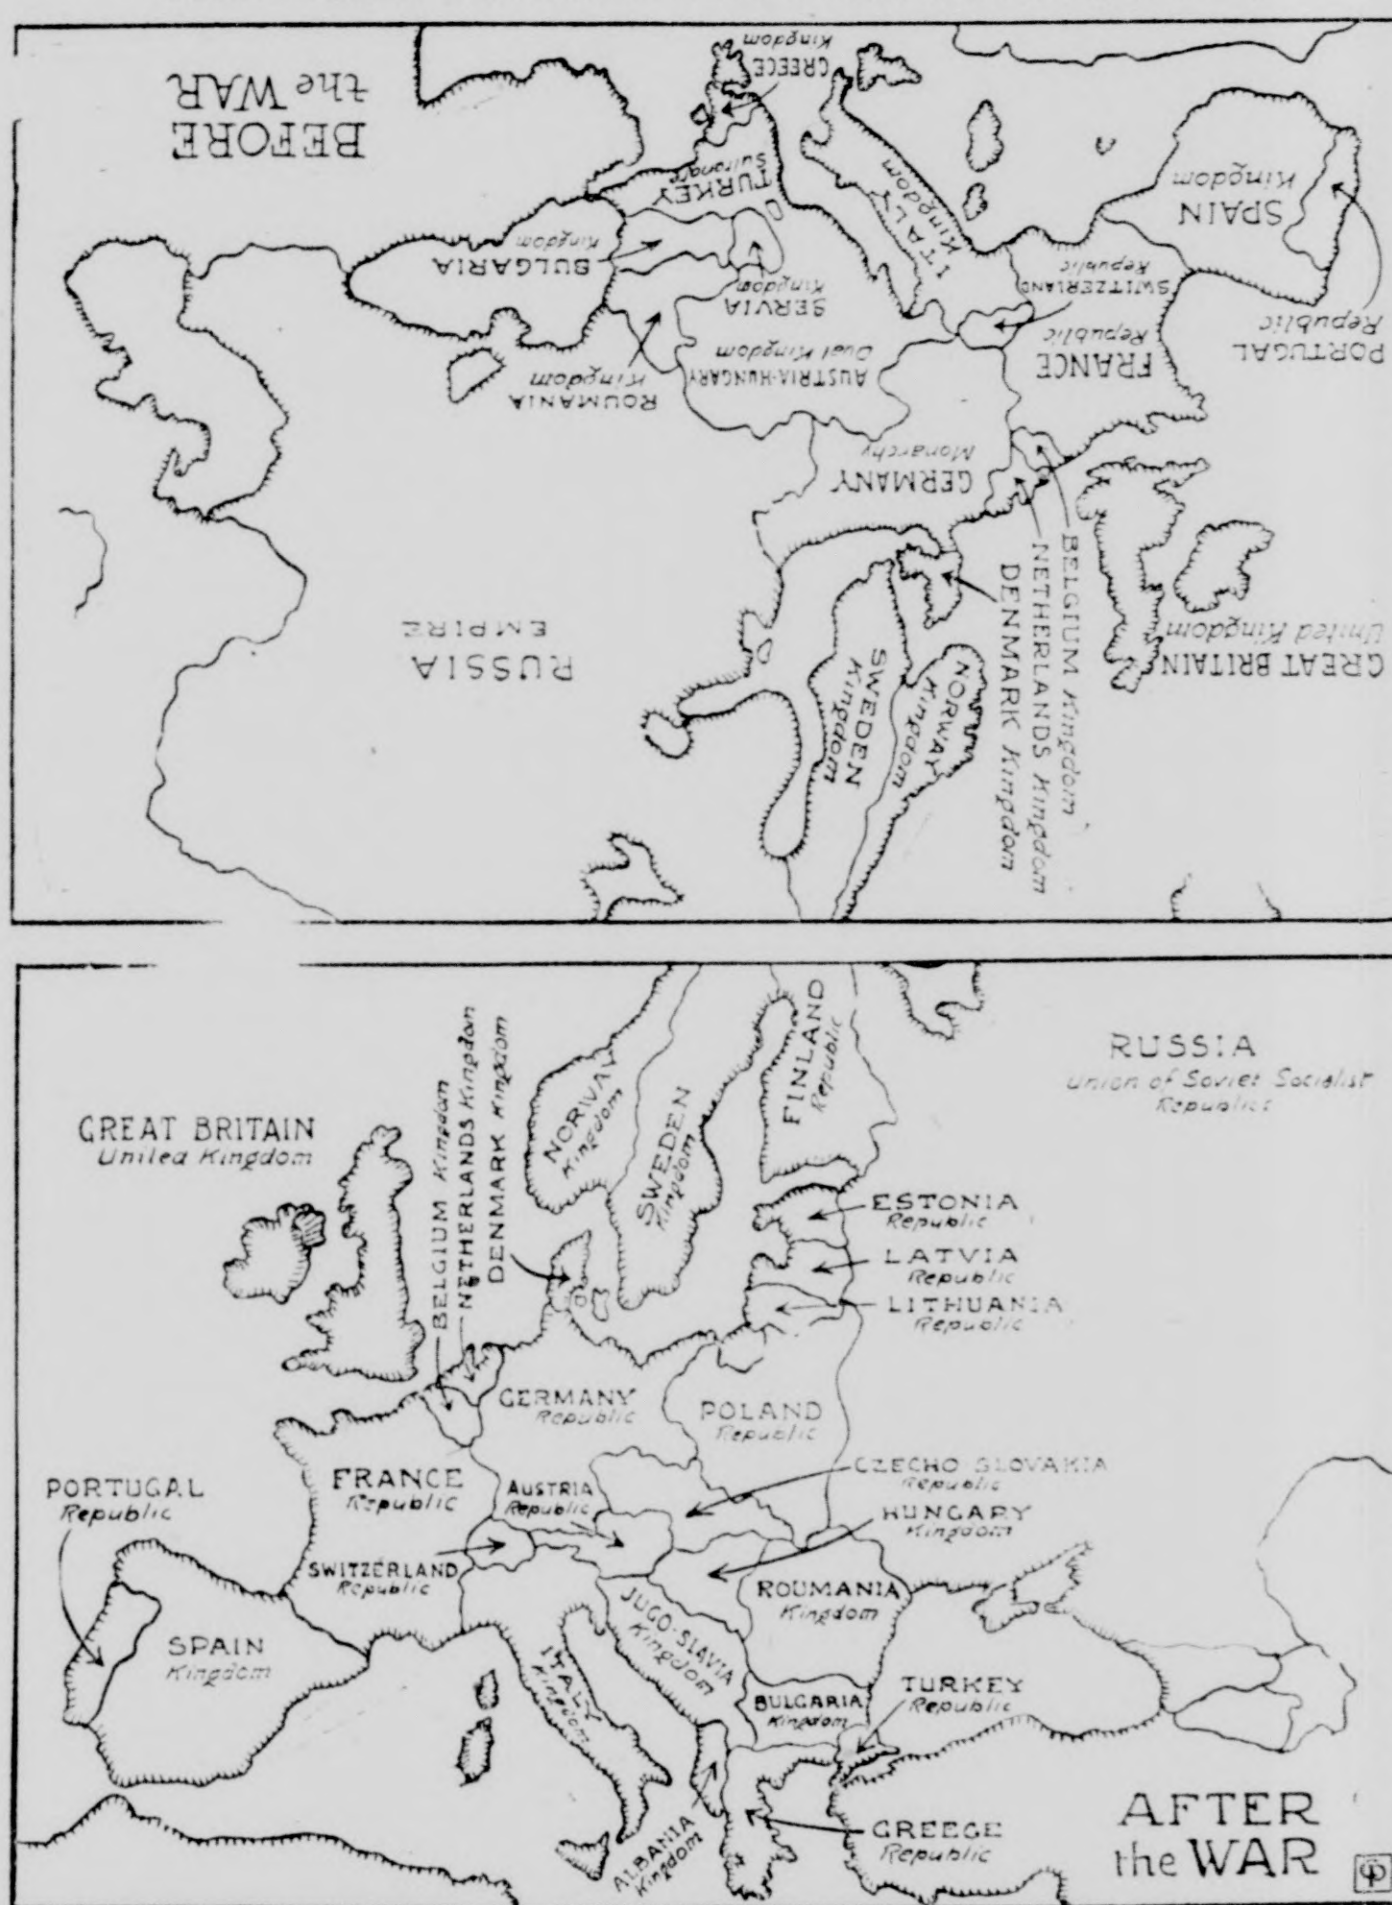

Second Division

Division Marshal Lieutenant Paul A. Welsh and his assistants Major C. E. Imbrie, Captain R. C. Lutz and Fred Glenn headed the second division.

The George Washington Junior High School band headed this group, which included the Women's Overseas Service League in cars, the V. F. W. and Legion Auxiliary Daughters of 1812.

In this section was included the Sharon Legion Drum corps and members, Watt Post of the Legion from Enon Valley, The Slippery Rock Legion drum corps, former members of Troop F headed by Captain R. B. Davenport, Farrell High School band, The V. F. W. Posts of Farrell and Beaver Valley service men and New Brighton V. F. W. Drum corps, the drum corps of Greenville Legion Post, Colonel Daniel Leisure Post United Spanish

These two maps graphically tell the story of the upheaval in Europe brought about by the World war and its aftermath. The map at top shows Europe in 1913, prior to the war; the one below is a recent one, showing the changed boundaries and governments.

War Veterans, and the Police and Firemen's Post of Pittsburgh.

Third Division

Third division of the parade was headed by Captain T. W. McCullough and aides Nick Speed and Addison Caruthers. The Ben Franklin Junior High School band headed the division. In this division were Colonel W. W. Stevenson and staff of Fourth Regiment, Sons of Union Veterans Reserve, Sharpsburg Post V. F. W. drum corps, Salvation Army band from Butler and members of the Salvation Army, The Tarentum American Legion drum corps, Reserve Officers, American Legion Post of Mt. Jackson, Butler ex-service men's band and Harry L. McBride Post drum corps of this city, the hundreds of V. F. W., American Legion and ex-service men of this district and Colonel Charles Young Post, American Legion of this city.

The float division was one of the surprise features of the parade. It was headed by Division Marshal, Orville Potter and his aides Charles Allen and George Thompson in autos.

In this group were several bands, including the Croton school band, the Croton A. M. and drum of Sligo, Pa., who made a hit by their old time music, the Mahoning school band and others. The pony section was large and excellent. Several very attractive floats in this were those of the Girl Reserves, the Red Cross, Sons of Union Veterans, the V. F. W. ladies, the Retail Grocers association, Girl Scouts, Universal Sanitary Manufacturing company Orr Baking company, Rick-McJannet Dairy company, Chapman Dairy and scores of other decorated trucks and cars, which added much to the affair. The Retail Grocers association contributed very largely to this division.

The historical contribution to the float division, which attracted more than ordinary attention was the Conestoga wagon, one of the earlier day modes of transportation, which was loaned by the Baltimore & Ohio for the celebration, being sent here all the way from Baltimore. As this ancient horse drawn vehicle lumbered through the street, filled with a happy throng of youngsters, who were getting their first taste of this kind of transportation, it was greeted with enthusiasm by the thousands of spectators.

The parade was over in an hour and a quarter from the time that it started and had it not been for the rain that was falling as it started there is little doubt but that there would have been at least double the number of paraders than there were in the parade formation.

It will be a long time before New Castle will witness a greater or more enthusiastic Armistice day celebration than that which is now a matter of history.

RESTAURANT OWNERS

HOLD MEETING, FORM ORGANIZATION HERE

Twenty-two restaurateurs of New Castle who met to organize into a permanent organization, in the St. George Greek Orthodox church Monday evening, selected a committee which will draw up a constitution for the organization. The name of the organization has not been decided and may be chosen at the next meeting scheduled to be held next Monday at 8 p. m. The constitution will then be presented by the committee. The restaurateurs held a preliminary meeting a week ago and decided to hold another meeting on Monday.

Regent Talks Of Armistice Day

"Armistice Day, celebrating the conclusion of the world's greatest war, pertinently emphasizes our experiences in that war against England in which my ancestors served," declared Miss Jennie S. Hope, 439 Center Square, Podunk, Oklahoma, regent of the John Smith Chapter of the United States National Society of the Daughters of 1812, of which Mrs. Samuel Z. Shope, of Philadelphia, is president national. Mrs. S. S. McCleery, 805 Highland avenue is a real daughter of the United States Daughters of 1812 and is a member of the New Castle Perry Chapter of the organization.

"The lessons of the world war," continues Miss Hope, "have been welded into a comprehensive National Defense law. The operations of this law will prevent a debacle similar to that of the War of 1812, which because of lack of training and failure of supplies, required so many men and such an expenditure of money to overcome the fewer trained soldiers of England."

Tunney Does Not Need To Pay Mara, Is Jury Verdict

Gene Tunney Wins Smashing Victory In Legal Tilt For Half-Million

SPEEDY VERDICT FAVORS EX-CHAMP

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, today won a smashing legal victory when a jury returned a verdict in his favor in the suit brought against him by Timothy J. Mara, promoter, for $526,812, alleging breach of contract.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The great legal battle between Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion of the world, and Timothy J. Mara over a matter of $526,812.42 went to the jury at 11:30 o'clock this morning after Supreme Court Justice Peter A. Hatting had delivered his charge.

Mara is suing Tunney for $455,000 and accumulated interest, charging that the ex-champion broke an oral agreement to pay him 10 per cent of his earnings in the first fight with Jack Dempsey and 25 per cent of what he made after he had won the title. Mara, a sports promoter, said Tunney promised to "cut" him in to this extent for helping exploit a Tunney-Dempsey match in 1926.

Based On Evidence
Judge Hatting in his charge told the jurors that it was their principal duty to determine whether Tunney or Mara had told the truth on the stand. He told them their verdict must be based on evidence alone and that they were to disregard arguments between counsel.

"The burden of proof in this action is on the plaintiff Mara," said Judge Hatting. "If the scales of justice are hanging even the verdict must be for the defendant."

"I charge you that the plaintiff was an interested witness; that the defendant also was an interested witness. Not that their testimony is to be misbelieved but it must be carefully weighed."

"If you think it advisable you can disregard any part or all of the testimony of an interested witness."

The judge advised the jury to pay no attention to the importance of the principals, saying:

"Irrespective of who they are they come here as strangers."

HOOVER LAUDS
ADVERTISING

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The Association of National Advertisers concluded the second day of its convention here today at a session devoted to problems of distribution.

President Hoover addressing the convention at a banquet last night urged maintenance of high standards in advertising and reminded the advertisers they were responsible for higher standards of living.

"The purpose of advertising," he said, "is to create desire and from the torments of desire there at once emerges additional demand, and from demand you pull upon increasing production and distribution."

"By the stimulants of advertising which you administer you have stirred the lethargy of the old law of supply and demand until you have transformed cottage industries into mass production. From enlarged diffusion of articles and services you cheapen costs and thereby you are a part of the dynamic force which creates higher standards of living."

Braham Speaks At Y. W. Meeting

World Fellowship Week Observed At Y. W. C. A.
Session At Noon

Celebrating World Fellowship Week 90 members of the local Young Woman's Christian Association met in the Y. W. C. A. green room for luncheon at 12:30 this afternoon.

Following luncheon Dr. Mildred Rogers, chairman of the membership committee, told of the purpose of the meeting—that the membership could meet together on this most appropriate of days and think of what world fellowship stands for, and the progress that is being achieved toward that end.

Speaker of the afternoon was introduced by Mrs. George W. Conway, who was in charge of the program.

Attorney Walter Braham gave a splendid address on "World Fellowship."

Mrs. John Elliott, president of the Y. W. C. A. board, gave a short talk and introduced Miss Emma Moore, secretary, and Miss Esthelle Abruzzi, Italian secretary, of the International Institute, who are doing so much good work with the foreign element of the city.

To Leave Mass.

Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, of Beverly, Mass., national chairman of the Committee for Law Enforcement, has announced she would sell her Beverly home and move to Florida. Reasons for her departure were that, being bitterly disappointed over the repeal of the baby Volstead Act in Massachusetts, she had no desire to bring her children up in a State where the liquor law had been repealed.

Window Display Prize Awards Announced

Display windows of the city in the prize competition being held in connection with the Armistice Day celebration were judged Monday afternoon by Mrs. S. D. Pearson, George Fox and Owen Penfield Fox.

After a careful study of all the windows entered in the competition, the judges announced that Nicholas Pascarella, employed as a butcher in the store of W. J. Durant, 301 Ray street, was entitled to the first prize of $25.

The conception of Mr. Pascarella, a young man in his early twenties, was original with him and tells a story of the armistice that ended the World war, which is indeed remarkable.

In his window at the Durant store, he has the unknown soldiers' tomb, perfectly arranged and conceived, a portrait of President Wilson, Flanders field, a German Zepelin, etc.

The second prize of $15 goes to V. O. Potter, 1033 East Washington street, and is for a double window display at his store. In the one window is all the implements of war and in the other the results of

The Parent Problem

Abolish Punishments Early In Child's Life

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

I once wrote a series of articles for a magazine, including one on punishment, which was rejected as not fit to print, since it was "out of keeping with the modern trend in education." But it finally got by the publisher of my book, "The Modern Parent." Let me quote two of the "dangerous" paragraphs:

"I have no quarrel with any parent who, without an inordinate amount of attention to the child, can succeed without resort to pain, in teaching the child at an early age to avoid specific dangers, which have been defined, to handle property with reasonable care and to manifest appropriate consideration for the feelings and the rights of others. Hats off to her! A skillful parent who is with the child nearly all his waking moments may get those things done without saying 'No.' But for her to give so much personal attention to the child is not good for him nor for her. Those who advise parents not to use little children also advise them to make these little children independent. If such advisers were to observe the average home they soon would see how impossible it is to carry out both items of advice, which for the average parent are mutually contradictory.

"At any rate, about 99 out of every 100 parents resort, at some time or another, to corporal punishment. I am for facing frankly a practical situation, with a view to helping little parents toward an intelligent procedure, so as to guarantee the best results with the least possible pain, in the long run, and the greatest possible pleasure, to the end that all corporal punishment may be abolished when the child is four or five, that punishments will be reduced tremendously, and that children may be lovable and happy, and grow up to be useful citizens. Happiness alone may be a worthy goal. The child who early learns proper inhibitions will escape many unnecessary conflicts and annoyances, and will develop habits that will guarantee him lasting satisfaction."

Be it observed that merely to prevent a specific wrong behavior for the moment could not justify inflicting pain. How absurd it were to spank a child to keep him from turning on the gas jet this time! You are there; you can easily prevent him. But you are not primarily concerned about this time. It is for the future you are working. You spank him now so that he will likely keep himself away from the gas jet next time when no one is with him. Always it is for future value that present punishment is warranted.

To the constructive side of conduct I have devoted a pamphlet written for the United States bureau of education, entitled, "Education of Young Children Through Celebrating Their Successes," which may be had of the Superintendent of public documents, Washington, D. C., for a 5-cent stamp.

Capone Henchmen Will Surrender

Bonding Company Ordered To Surrender Two Of Capone's Ace Gunmen

BONDING COMPANY OFFICIALS ANGRY

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Authorities were notified today that Frank Rio and Frank Nitti, reputed aces of the Capone gang, will be surrendered to police by their bondsmen together with a score of other gangsters now at liberty on bond furnished by the Grand Central Surety Company.

Leslie J. Tompkins, professor of law at New York University and President of the Surety Company, made this announcement following a demand by Judge John H. Lyle that the professors be notified of the bonds furnished for Nitti and Rio, Capone leaders.

Tompkins ordered his branch officials to surrender all gangsters they have bonded at once. The Surety Company will henceforth refuse bonds to gangsters following Tompkins' demand, according to branch officials between 300 and 400 criminals are now at liberty here on the company's bonds.

In communicating with authorities here professor Tompkins said he did not know notorious gangsters here were being bonded by his company.

The December grand jury will be instructed to make a sweeping investigation of bail bond forfeitures.

Chief Justice John P. McGowan announced when it was revealed that less than 1 per cent has been collected of $10,000,000 in criminal bail bonds ordered forfeited.

Take Over Room For Parcel Post Rush Christmas

First Step In Post Office's Plan To Give Speedy Yuletide Service

New Castle's surplus volume of parcel post this Christmas season will be handled with despatch by an experienced corps of mail clerks at a temporary sub-station set up in a downstairs storeroom in the Wallace block, West Washington and North Jefferson streets, the post office announced today.

The acquiring of the needed room marks a part of the office's plan to furnish the best of service to patrons here during the holidays, despite the heavy mail volume. Other details are being worked out.

Pressed for space at the post office building, the mailing division as in previous years has been forced to seek adequate working quarters of its own. Authority to rent additional space has been given by department officers at Washington.

Officials here said a parcel post truck will operate constantly between the post office and sub-station, carrying mail for assortment at the branch and carrying back other mail.

The sub-station will function only as a parcel post distributing point, and not as a mail receipt branch for patrons. Everything must be mailed at the post office as usual.

Large Crowd At Butler Dinner

New Castle B. P. W. Well Represented At Public Relations Dinner

Miss Lena Madson Phillips, recently elected by delegates from seventeen countries of the universe to the position of international president of the world's Business and Professional Women's clubs, addressed an audience of near 300 members of clubs of all western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio, Monday evening in Butler, at the Sterling club.

Included in the congregation were nearly 30 members of the New Castle club of Business and Professional Women, who had motored to Butler for the express purpose of hearing their international president. At the head of the local club members attending, was Miss Nancy Bechtel, president of the New Castle B. P. W.

Dr. Mildred Rogers, of New Castle, state president was there and gave a brief address.

"Women at Home and Abroad" was the subject of Miss Phillips' address. She told of the forming of the International Federation and of her experiences with the women abroad. She told of the steady advancement of women in homes and in the business world.

It wasn't so very long ago when women were not entitled to have business careers. It was considered wrong for a young lady to enter into any kind of a business position unless it was teaching school. Her rightful place was to rock on a chair on the front porch, knit, embroider, gossip and wait for some nice man to come along and offer to support her. It is different now.

Million women are engaged in various vocations and there is a spirit of equality underneath it all.

The industrial age, Miss Phillips pointed out, has taken the work from the homes and the women followed it, out into the world. And they like it.

Speaking of the International Federation, Miss Phillips expressed her belief that this would do much to prevent wars. The unseen women of all nations will tend to make war more difficult.

Miss Nellie Walter, president at the meeting, invocation was given by Miss Edith Galbreath. Welcome address was given by Miss Victoria McClymonds, president of the Butler B. P. W. club. Gummer's orchestra furnished the music.

Among the clubs represented at this public relations dinner were—Meadville, Kittanning, Greenville, Warren, O., Wilkesburg, Grove City, Greensburg, Pittsburgh, Butler, New Castle and New Castle junior club.

Joseph A. Heilmann, mayor of Butler, spoke to the women for a few minutes on unemployment. He said people everywhere are being urged to keep on buying instead of saving for rainy days. He asked that citizens employ men now to do odd jobs around the home and herefore help solve the unemployment problem.

Dr. Rogers told of the increasing

Two Slayers Are Put To Death In Columbus Prison

First Double Execution In Ohio In Several Years Sends Two Men To Doom

BOTH ARE CALM AND MINUS FEAR

(International News Service)
COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 11.—The murder of an Akron city patrolman and an aged Ohio farmer were avenged by the state today with the executions of Bert Walker, gangster, gunman and highwayman, and Charles Cramer, 26-year-old Georgetown robber.

The two men paid with their lives shortly before 8 o'clock last night in the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary here, after Governor Myers Y. Cooper had refused them executive clemency. It was the first double execution at the Ohio state prison in several years.

Walker, 42-year-old half-breed negro, was sentenced to die for the killing of Harlan Manes of the Akron police department.

Cramer was condemned to pay the supreme penalty for the brutal slaying of Robert Clemens, Brown county farmer.

Cramer was the first to "go out." He entered the death chamber at 7:31 p. m. He was strapped into the chair and was pronounced dead at 7:41 by Dr. George Keil, penitentiary physician.

After the body had been turned over to undertakers and the death instrument had been re-wired, Walker, calm and defiant, walked through the little green door to give up his life.

The current was turned on at 7:47 and he was pronounced dead three minutes later by Dr. Keil.

Both men were calm and neither showed signs of emotion.

Manganese Industry Has Been Paralyzed By Soviet Dumping

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The dumping of Soviet ores in the United States has paralyzed the American manganese industry, J. Carson Anderson, president of the American Manganese Producers' Association declared at the opening of the association's annual convention Monday.

"On account of the dumping of Soviet ores at prices regardless of the cost of production most plants have had to cease production during the earlier part of the year," Anderson said. "Likewise, construction of new plants has been suspended because there is no market for the ore."

"In the midst of our present period of depression—in the midst of the period of unemployment—we come humbly knocking at the doors of our government for protection against Soviet Russia—we come humbly knocking at the doors of the steel industry for a market for our product."

Needs Proper Market
Anderson said that with the proper protection against Russia, and a proper market for its ores, the manganese industry in this country would soon be able to put several thousand men to work.

"It is a well known fact that Soviet Russia is aiming at world revolution," Anderson continued. "She is conspiring to undermine the governments of the world. She is seeking to destroy our institutions, break down our industries and spread organized communism among our people. There is no easier way in which she could control our national defenses than to gain a monopoly in the world's manganese markets."

The association already has placed its case before the customs bureau, with a demand for an anti-dumping order against Russian manganese.

Some News, Some Views, But

Around New

Finis le guerre. Finis les soldat. Twelve years since that was the motto of the month, the phrase of the year, the line of the century. Twelve years since the German delegates plodded their way to the private car of Marshal Foch and told him that their nation was ready to quit. Twelve years since the Yank dough-boy first asked the question, "when do we go home?"

It was the end of the war but not as some of the nations thought, the end of the last war. As the world celebrated the twelfth anniversary of the armistice of what was thought to be the war to end war, more than half the world is on the verge of a break that may plunge nations at each other's throats again.

Here in New Castle today Armistice Day means something. There hasn't been an Armistice Day quite like it, for once again the streets echoed with the sound of marching feet, the clump, clump, clump of hobnails that have laid in the closet, and the leads of 1917-18, grayer perhaps and a little thicker round the waists were back on the streets, soldiers once again.

There were enough bugle corps on the streets today to supply the A. E. F. Bradford's corps started last night from home and checked in this morning before the dawn. And what a bugle corps they have.

The city schools of New Castle were well represented. Five bands from city schools is something of a record. And for some of the smaller fellows who were out there blowing an instrument, the parade was in celebration of an armistice they never saw. They weren't born.

Over around the Legion Home last night it looked like a recreation but in a camp during the war. The only thing missing was the uniforms. Fellows who were up in the thick of it recounted their experience, others who served on this side chimed in, and now and then a sailor piped up with a salty note to flavor the conversation.

Today is Nick Speed's national holiday. With Nick it's national, legal, and personal. Twelve years ago when he was told the armistice was signed, he scraped the mud out of his ears, borrowed a cigarette from the top sergeant, and said that he would never work on Armistice Day. He never has. Doesn't mind working nights or Sunday during the year, but Armistice Day, not a chance.

Major Guy J. Wadlinger, commander of the Legion post got reminiscent and began recounting some of his experiences in France. After the armistice he was given an opportunity to go with the Hoover Relief Commission but declined. Perhaps if he had he might have been secretary of state or something like that by now.

There was one chap missing whose story of the war ranks as a classic. It was Chappy Craig. His experiences with the 103rd Motor Supply Train are a sure cure for the blues. But Chappy isn't in the city any more.

Jim McMillin got back to town in time for the celebration today. In the past four years Jim has been in France, Algeria, the British Isles, Egypt, Brazil, the Panama Canal Zone and the Pacific coast. But he was back home today for the celebration.

The Spanish War Vets are all enthused also. They have a window full of relics on display showing what they brought back from Cuba. That wasn't a very long war, but they packed in a lot of hardships while it lasted.

The first parade with soldiers in it I ever saw was a turnout of the Spanish Vets. Pittsburgh was honoring President Theodore Roosevelt and the men of the Spanish War still had their uniforms left and could get into them. The hand they got as they swung down Fifth Avenue is still a stirring memory.

And back of the vets contingent was an open carriage in which sat a man who had on a silk hat, wore glasses and showed his teeth when he smiled. It was Theodore Roosevelt, "Teddy" to those vets of the brawl with Spain.

Wes Davy has another fish story, but this one is backed up with a clipping from a scientific magazine. It seems that the bass up around Paudash, in the province of Ontario are the largest in this country. Great big fellows that put an ordinary bass to a shame.

Fishermen have thought they might have been crossed with muscalonge and even some of the scientifically minded were puzzled. Now it develops that the water up there is radioactive, as much so as some of the famous spas in Europe. The scientists of McGill University believe that the radium in the water is responsible for the abnormal size of the fish.

But the article does not give any reason why some of the fish up around Nova Scotia grow whiskers.

Opposition For British Proposal Expressed Today

Ambassador Hugh Gibson
Expresses Self On Plan
Of Viscount Cecil

REAFFIRMS POLICY OF UNITED STATES

GENEVA, Nov. 11.—Definite opposition to the proposal of Viscount Cecil, chief British delegate, to limit war materials by burget was expressed by Ambassador Hugh Gibson, head of the American delegation, before the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of nations today.

Reaffirming the policy long held by the United States on this proposal, Ambassador Gibson said: "I have just returned from discussing the subject at Washington. I honestly say that the United States can not sign a convention embodying this principle."

The text of a provisional agreement between the five big naval powers on methods of naval limitation was distributed among the delegates to the conference.

The agreement, under whose terms capital ships would be retained at 35,000 tons, was reached at a series of private sessions between the heads of the American, British, French, Japanese and Italian delegations. Formulation of the tentative agreement was first revealed by International News Service yesterday.

The text is based upon the principles of the London naval treaty and is subject to various alterations, the Italians having made reservations to virtually every point. The document does not provide any agreement on cruisers.

NOTES OF TROOP "F" 103RD CAVALRY OF NEW CASTLE

Sergt. George F. Seyffert and his bride, former Miss Gertrude McDowell, are expected back from their honeymoon this week.

Sergts. Stewart and Pollock went to Volant Monday to secure additional horses for use in the Armistice Day parade. They returned with three animals.

Privates Dicks, Edgar and Pierce went to the Greer farm, Pulaski township, and brought four horses for the parade.

The troop's participation in the parade today will be one of the highlights of the event. Guardsmen have been preparing and the horses, thanks to Sergt. Knight and his assistant, Robbie are in excellent shape for the parade, drill and rough riding stunts.

Chas. D. Gibson of R. D. 5 leaves Wednesday for Harrisburg to take the preliminary West Point entrance examination at the State Capitol building.

Mess Sergt. Florida was busy on Monday evening, preparing the troop utensils to serve a meal at the stable grounds this afternoon.

Merle Burrows, former corporal, now a teacher in Pittsburgh, has written to the commander that he will be in New Castle on Thanksgiving evening.

Forty Sam Brown belts were distributed to guardsmen in the armory Monday evening.

THE HAPPIEST TIMES

In life have never been those without responsibility. Will never be found without an accomplishment of work. Come when we determine to make the best of the worst. Are impossible without a good science, a good friend, and a worthy task. Never come on the holidays but the holy days. Come only to those who have labored to deserve them. Are dependent upon poverty or wealth, but upon attitudes of soul.

Pure White Albino Deer Surprises Bear Hunters

It's seldom—yes, very seldom a hunter trekking through the woodlands of western Pennsylvania catches a glimpse of a snow-white Albino deer, and when they do they report them. That's why M. G. Ward, Mercer road, and Wendell Wilson and his father, New Wilmington road, back from a hunt in Potter county have this story to tell:

"We were walking along sort of slowly, and had already seen plenty of deer and bear signs. We had gone there chiefly to hunt bear, so naturally were on the lookout. All of a sudden the Albino, with its 8 or 10-prong horns dashed out in front of us. For the moment it startled us."

Hunters in Potter and other counties in that vicinity consider it a rare treat to see an Albino, they said.

The group succeeded in locating bear tracks, but nowhere could the bears be found. Plenty of deer were seen.

Probably the most enthusiastic hunter in the trio was Mr. Wilson's 70-year-old father, an eager nimrod. Despite his age, he still delights in shouldering his gun and entering the woods in quest of bear and deer.

Service Star Legion Not In Parade Today

There was one organization, which was the outcome of the World War, which was not represented in the Armistice Day parade, that of the Service Star Legion and the reason for this was out of consideration for the feelings of so many gold star mothers in the legion, who felt their emotions could not stand the strain of the recollections which would be brought up by this demonstration.

The gold star mothers in the legion are Mrs. D. R. Smith, president; Mrs. Lida Pitzer, Mrs. Esther Cartwright, Mrs. Emma Campbell, Mrs. Fred Wehr, Mrs. Sara Anderson, Mrs. Mary Phillips, Mrs. Sara Thomas and Mrs. J. C. Cox.

Pastor Dismisses Worshippers To Aid Brush Fire Battle

Center Church Congregation
Swoops Down On Brush
Fire; Homes Endangered

Dismissed by its pastor while in the midst of Sunday morning services, the congregation of Center church, Ellwood road, obtained shovels, brooms and wet sacks and attacked a fire that was raging in nearby woods.

Barns and homes off the Ellwood road, near Center church were endangered twice by brush fires believed to have been started during the week end by hunters from New Castle who disregarded the warning issued recently by game authorities not to smoke in the woods.

Men from New Castle were hunting. In some manner a bad fire was started and residents of the district worked until midnight, Saturday, finally extinguishing the blaze. While it appeared at first that all danger of a repetition of the fire was over, the fire flared up again at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. The second blaze endangered barns and homes in the vicinity.

Word was sent to Center church and the pastor dismissed service immediately, everyone going to the scene and beating the flames with wet sacks and shovels. Rabbits scurried from the hot grass. Many were believed burned.

The burned area was still watched Monday, and according to reports, will not be safe until after it rains.

Third Young People Organize Orchestra

The Young People of the Third United Presbyterian church have organized an orchestra under the leadership of Watson Wilson and the rehearsals this week have been intensive owing to the fact that they will make their initial appearance Thursday evening when they have the musical accompaniment for the play, "Bottled Liberty" which is being presented in the auditorium of the church Thursday and Friday evenings of this week.

The orchestra comprises a piano, four violins, two trumpets, a French horn, a trombone, two carinets and two violas.

Extra Street Cars In Operation Today

Extra cars have been placed in operation to carry today's traffic according to Chris Coulthard superintendent of the local division of the Pennsylvania-Ohio Electric Railway company.

The company this morning sent cars to Croton and the Seventh Ward to haul the bands which participated in the parade.

So they'll scatter germs in the next war. Happy day! At least you can hit back when somebody sneezes germs at you.

Congressman Rankin Outlines Democratic Plans For 1931 Session

"It's positive," said Congressman John E. Rankin of Tupelo, Miss. arrival last night at the Castleton that the Democrats will organize both the house and senate at their next session. This means that the Democrats will have a preponderance in all committees and the right to control the reporting on all legislation in the two houses.

"It will be the purpose of the Democratic party to strive to correct the injustices and inequalities of the present tariff law, to restore agriculture and relieve unemployment."

"The tariff must be adjusted to be more in keeping with the law of supply and demand and do away with the tariff barriers that are being raised in other countries and also the unfriendly feeling that it is creating."

"As it now stands, it is building up conditions that really lead to war and rendering useless all such pacts as the naval reduction agreement."

"I shall be in favor of the next session of congress of a billion dollar appropriation to relieve the present economic distress and unemployment, the same to be distributed equitably among the various states on the basis of their population, and to be used in the construction of improvements, such as roads, canals or other improvements that are needed. This will tide over the people of the country until next spring. The money would be given without obligation on the part of the states other than it be spent to furnish employment."

"The question may be raised as to why this should be done and how. But we are paying off our national debt at the rate of a billion dollars a year, while we are allowing the allies of the late war 62 years in which to pay their indebtedness. Why not take a similar period of time to pay the war debt and help restore our people and country to a satisfactory basis."

Congressman Rankin has been a member to congress for the past ten years and has a record of attendance, which is said to shatter all records of that body for many years. He has not missed a roll call in the past eight years. The only reason he says for this record is that he believes in the old adage, "Watch as well as pray," which is very essential in congressional affairs.

He was a member of the Democratic congressional campaign committee in the recent election and will be the floor leader of the Democratic party, should, as he predicts, the Democrats organize the next congress.

He is very optimistic with regard to the Democratic party and is also confident that the next president will be a Democrat.

Congressman Rankin, wife and daughter Annie Laurie arrived last evening by automobile from Washington, D. C. They made the trip here with Congressman Cochran of the Mercer, Venango and Crawford county congressional district.

They are being cared for at the Castleton. While Congressman Rankin is being kept busy by the former service men in the parade etc. Mrs. Rankin and daughter are being entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Rentz of Edison avenue.

IN MANY BUSINESSES THE FORD TRUCK EARNS A PLACE

In almost every business where hauling plays a part, the Ford truck is giving faithful transportation at an unusually low cost.

One of the most important factors contributing to its reliability and low cost of operation is the rugged simplicity of the operating mechanism. The ignition, lubrication, cooling and fuel systems are excellent examples of this feature.

Strength and simplicity of the parts of the Ford truck materially reduce the cost of maintenance, and correspondingly increase its reliability for day in and day out service.

For every business need there is a Ford haulage unit of high value that is low in first cost and low in cost of operation.

Sees Soviets, U. S., Sharing World's Trade

(International News Service)
CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Nov. 11.—In ten years the United States and Soviet Russia will share the industrial supremacy of the world.

That is the belief of Prof. Peter A. Kozmin, of the Moscow College of the Milling, Grain Elevators and Baking Industry, who came here for a visit after a tour of three months through flour mill machinery plants throughout the country.

"For four or five years," said Prof. Kozmin, "we will buy machinery from the United States. Then we will establish our own factories and begin to manufacture machinery ourselves."

"It will not be a question of competition. In another ten years world industrial leadership will be peacefully divided between the United States and Soviet Russia. Think of the 700,000,000 of Asia, in China and India, who are now fighting for their liberation. Isn't that a great market? That is the market Soviet Russia will attempt to develop."

No Red Lights Irk Drivers In This Town

(International News Service)
CAMPBELL, O., Nov. 11.—This community has one feature that should interest every motorist.

There is not a single traffic light to disturb drivers, and as a result there are no fines paid for "crashing the red" in courts here.

But there's a reason! The entire town is built on the east side of the Mahoning River and many of the residences and buildings are located on the side of a hill. There is but one street parallel to the river.

Eats Raw Foods For Health's Sake

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Although Dr. Elmer Lee lives in an expensive and fashionable apartment overlooking Central Park his floors are bare of rugs and only actual necessities equip his rooms.

"I haven't tasted meat in 40 years," the doctor says proudly. "I eat Nature's fruits, raw vegetables, nuts, fresh fruits, and water, and I eat four, five, and sometimes six times a day, just as my body calls for nourishment. I seldom get eight hours of sleep; I don't need it. I like to walk in Central Park and I do my own cooking and housework, for it is both useful and conducive to mental serenity."

"True health," he claims, depends upon the foods provided for us by Nature, and this, together with fresh air, pleasant and useful work, sleep and mental contentment, will keep any man well."

Dr. Lee is over 80, and hopes to reach 100 years.

State Has Champ Rattlesnake Killer

(International News Service)
MILES CITY, Mont., Nov. 11.—Rock Springs, Mont., now presents its candidate for a niche in the hall of fame alongside those immortal figures who have reached the heights by tree-sitting, coffee-drinking, marathon dancing, and other accomplishments.

Montana's claim to a place in the sun lies in the record of Charles M. Dayhoff, who claims the honor of killing nearly 200 rattlesnakes. Dayhoff says he came upon a snake den while herding cattle for shipment. He killed more than 80 of the reptiles.

The next day Dayhoff took several friends with him to a hill near where he had made his first kill, and killed 90 more.

On the third day 27 more reptiles were bagged.

High Prepares To Play South

Youngstown Team Comes Here Saturday For Annual Clash

SOUTH TOUGH Foe FOR LOCAL ELEVEN

Following its impressive victory over Rayen high of Youngstown on Saturday afternoon, the New Castle high school team resumed training at Taggart field on Monday afternoon in preparation for another Youngstown team which will attempt to stop the winning streak of the local team on next Saturday.

The New Castle team played well against the Ohioans last Saturday and demonstrated that the locals are in fine condition.

The workout on Monday afternoon was a light one and consisted mostly of signal drills with the local warriors working on several new plays. The first string team was the same that started the contest against Rayen with the exception of Crisci, who failed to report for practice Monday.

This afternoon's session will probably be another light one.

For the past three years this South team has been a "jinx" to the local team. Last year the locals were favored to defeat the Ohioans. The best the locals could do was get a tie out of it. Two years ago when the first game was played between these two institutions, New Castle again entered the field as favorites.

The result showed New Castle to be on the losing end. The Ohioans again have another good team this season. Every year the champs of Youngstown are selected. This season South and Chaney will battle it out for the championship.

Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner announced today that both schools have come to an agreement whereby the price of admission for this game will be reduced. In the contract the admission price was set at $1. The admission price has been set at 75 cents per head for reserved seats and 50 cents for bleachers.

Former Grid Stars Visit Here Monday

Paul Reider and Paul Cuba, Pitt Gridders, Spent Monday With Relatives And Friends

Two ex-high school grid stars who are making a name for themselves as members of the University of Pittsburgh football team visited here with relatives and friends on Monday.

Paul Reider, former quarterback star here several years ago and Paul Cuba tackle are the two pigskin chasers in question. Following the victory over Carnegie Tech last Saturday afternoon the gridders were given a day of rest on Monday and decided to spend it with their friends and relatives in their home town.

Reider who has been making a great showing in games he has participated in, started the contest last Saturday and made a fine showing. Cuba did not see action in the Tech game. Both Reider and Cuba are Sophomores and have two more years on the gridiron.

Bucky Lawless captured the decision from Paul Pirrone in a 10 round bout last night at Pittsburgh. The judges split and the referee gave the award to Lawless on account of his superior cleverness. Pirrone proved the best puncher. He floored Lawless in the second and fourth rounds. It was a good battle and went far to prove that out-of-town boys will class and punch put up good battles.

Kid Chocolate will attempt to wrest the featherweight championship from Battalino when they meet in the New York American's Christmas show, at Madison Square Garden, December 12. Kid Chocolate lost recently to Fidel La Barba, who has been matched to box Bud Taylor at the Garden, November 28.

Unless someone with authority steps in it is not likely that Army and Navy will meet in a post-season game for a benefit game, according to today's reports from Washington. It is said that the game between the service teams would realize a gross of $1,000,000.

Knut Rockne has offered to recruit his "Four Horsemen" and send the 1924 eleven against New York University in December for the benefit of the unemployed, according to reports from New York today. If he cannot get them all Knute will furnish a team of former Notre Dame greats.

Cuban Students Stage Big Riot, One Man Is Dead

Scores Suffering Injuries As Result Of Student Riot At Santiago

(International News Service) SANTIAGO, Cuba, Nov. 11.—One man is dead and more than a score suffering from injuries today as the result of a student riot which developed into a serious street clash between citizens and police.

The demonstration resulted from a student parade protesting against alleged "tyrannical" administration measures. Police attempted to break up the parade, and a series of hand-to-hand encounters resulted. It was estimated that 2,000 citizens participated in the scuffle, some siding with and others opposing the students.

Excitement reached its peak when two small bombs exploded in the Santiago Normal school and the Centro Gallego school. No great damage was reported and no one was injured. The demonstration finally was broken up on Alameda Drive after the students had uprooted and thrown into the bay a statue of Governor Barcelo. A similar attempted assault on a statue of President Machado was frustrated by police.

Battalino Matched To Meet Chocolate

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Battalino, featherweight champion of the world, will defend his title against Kid Chocolate for the Christmas fund in Madison Square Garden on December 12.

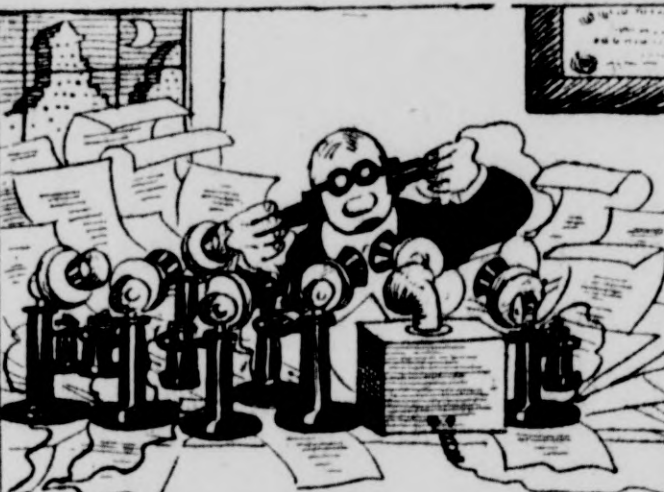

After many weeks of negotiating the match was closed when Louis Gutierrez accepted terms and signed for the Keed. Battalino will come down from Hartford tomorrow to sign.

This bout will mark Battalino's initial bow in a New York ring, as champion. Most of the little fellow's fighting has been done in Connecticut where he won the world's crown from Andre Routis, the French boy who had won it from Tony Canzonieri.

Gridiron Gossip

With the Geneva game on the wrong side of the ledger, the Westminster Titans will start preparing today for the game this week with Thiel college at New Wilmington. Coach Beede is not at all satisfied with the showing made by the team against Geneva, particularly in allowing Knapp and Seaburn to get away with that forward pass, and will drill the boys all week on breaking up forward passes. Thiel gave W. & J. a battle at New Castle.

This man Labe Wardle, former Washington high star, who throws passes for Thiel, looked awful sweet against W. & J. here two weeks ago, and if he is right this Saturday the Titans of Westminster had better be on their guard. Thiel defeated Bethany by a low score last Saturday, but this is no sign that they won't be good when they hit New Wilmington this week. Coach Rawley has a real live outfit of Lutherans, with Frank Leonard, former New Castle high boy, leading the list and captain of the team.

The Pitt Panthers, quite jubilant after that sneaky victory of 7 to 6 over Carnegie Tech, last week, will play plenty this week, with the Ohio State game at Columbus upmost in their minds. The Buckeye last week walloped the New 77 to 0, and will be out to knock off this cocky Pitt crew. Coach Sutherland will have to have the boys going at top speed to cope with Wesley Fesler and his gang. Ohio State has been an in-and-out team all year and they may be in this Saturday.

The Carnegie team will be idle this week, but will look ahead to the game November 22 at Philadelphia when they tackle the strong Temple eleven. The Tartans are going to win this one.

Spying On Sports

By WILLIAM RITT Central Press Sports Editor.

Though many "traditional" games remain to be played, the football barrage has lifted a little and from now on the bombardment of pigskins on big time gridirons will lessen until fire will practically cease the Saturday after Thanksgiving.

This week's football menu is a light lunch compared to the banquet which have gone before. Even Notre Dame will be seen in action against a team that is hardly a big leaguer.

The gridiron fare on Saturday gives us once more the annual Yale-Princeton tilt, of interest this season almost solely to Eli and Nassau grads and undergrads. Yale has a fair eleven, but the Tigers have been weak all season.

The Western conference presents its best card of the season, howsoever. The two undefeated teams, Michigan and Northwestern, go against each other, but the Minnesota has a chance to maul the Wolves while Northwestern is none too sure about Wisconsin. However, if either unbeaten outfit loses it will have to go down as a big upset. The Illinois-Chicago scrap is interesting in that it is another traditional affair.

Army and Navy which, in the belief of many football followers in the east, should be battling each other this Saturday, will be found going against Kentucky Wesleyan and Southern Methodists, two inter-sectional franchises.

Georgia Tech at Penn, Colgate at Syracuse, Dartmouth at Cornell are the only other battles of general interest in the east.

The south offers no outstanding battle.

Texas and Texas Christian may hand out a little fireworks in the southwest, while the Rocky mountain region will be chiefly interested in the Utah-Colorado battle.

The chief scrap on the Pacific coast involves no California team, Washington meeting the unbeaten Washington State outfit in the feature.

Stanford in California Tech, California in Nevada take on two secondary elevens.

The probable winners of Saturday's big games appear easier to pick than has been the case in recent weeks.

EAST: Yale has already been picked over Princeton. Penn ought to take Georgia Tech. Kentucky

Injured Star Is Missed By Titans

ELMER MEIDER

NEW WILMINGTON, Nov. 11.—Elmer Meider, freshman end, who was injured in the first game of the season has been lost for the remainder of the schedule to Coach "Dike" Beede at Westminster. Meider injured his leg in the Edinboro game, tried to play in the Grove City game three weeks later, injured the leg again, and was forced to quit the sport for the year.

Meider, who is also a basketball and track star, is now being treated for his injury in an effort to get in shape for the start of court practice in December. Next year the former Pittsburgh Schenley high boy should be an outstanding performer on the gridiron for the Titans. His performance in the first game of the season stamped him as one of the best athletes to enter the U. P. school in recent years, and his absence from the lineup since then has been noticeable.

Good Handball Games In Store As Y.M.C.A. Makes Negotiations

Interest In Handball Increases Considerably With Erection Of Roof Court

Some excellent handball games are in store for players of the Y. M. C. A. as negotiations are being completed with Y. M. C. A. in Youngstown, Pittsburgh, Coraopolis, New Brighton, and nearby places for single wall matches and four-wall matches, both singles and doubles.

Since the organization of the outdoor handball and the building of the four-wall court roof of the local Y. M. C. A. interest has picked up in handball considerably.

No dates have been announced for the forthcoming games. The Y. M. C. A. Outdoor Handball Club is comprised of men who play on the roof court while the Handball Club is comprised of men who play on the two single wall courts in the gym.

Miz Dart won the doubles championship tournament last year, when he played among the locals.

Among the handball players at the "Y" who play handball regularly, are the following:

Unusual Features To Game At Rayen

Football Collapses During Play —Thomas And Rayen Player Race Field

Most anything can happen at a football game. Take for instance the New Castle-Rayen game on Saturday afternoon when two unusual incidents occurred.

During a scrimmage to bring down a Rayen man who was carrying the ball, the referee blew the whistle which indicated that the man carrying the ball had been stopped. Some how or other the Rayen player in possession of the ball didn't hear the whistle and began to race down the field after being let loose. "Dike" Thomas, local fullback also must have missed the sound of the whistle and he commenced to race after the Rayen man carrying the ball.

The race was a close one and as the Youngstown boy was nearing the covered goal line Thomas made a pretty flying tackle that brought down the Ohioan only to find that the rest of the gridders awaited up the other side of the field to resume play. Fearing that the Rayen man had not been stopped Thomas took a chance and stopped the Rayen man.

Shortly after this happening occurred, New Castle lined up for another play and while Hoose was preparing to hurl the ball to one of the backfield men the pigskin became soft and a new football had to be put in use. These two unusual incidents caused much laughter from the stands.

Old Jack Quinn Finally Through

Veteran Heaver Passes From Big Leagues At Age Of Forty-Five

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The unconditional release of the veteran Jack Quinn by the Philadelphia Athletics Monday marked the passing from big league competition of one of the oldest pitchers in baseball.

Quinn, who at the age of forty-five was good enough to finish the season with a world's championship team, was one of the fast-vanishing race of spitball pitchers. He lost much of his old-time skill in 1930, however, and was used but infrequently by Connie Mack.

Quinn made good in his first year in the big league, winning nine games and losing five for the New York Yankees in 1909. He enjoyed a big year in 1910, winning eighteen games. He slipped a bit in the following two campaigns, however, and passed out of the big leagues for nine years pitching for Rochester, Vermont and the Baltimore Reds.

Jack reappeared with the Yankees in 1919 and twirled winning ball until he was traded to the Boston Red Sox in 1921. When the Sox offered waivers on him in 1925 it was generally thought that old John Pincus was at the end of the trail, but Connie Mack had faith in the chunky spitballer and grabbed him.

Quinn repaid Connie by staging a grand comeback and continued to cheat Father Time until the present season twenty-one years after his first appearance on the big time circuit.

Titans Start Drills Today For Thiel Team On Saturday

(Special To The News) NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 11.—Monday was a day of rest for Coach "Dike" Beede's Westminster college team after the strenuous Geneva contest of Saturday.

All the Titan players came out of the hard Covenantor game in the best of shape but Glenn Reifus, star right tackle, was hurt in the second quarter of Saturday's contest, was replaced by Cleland, entered the game again in the second half, but had to be replaced again by Cleland. "Pops" Harrison, Titan court mentor, who scouted Thiel at Bethlehem on Saturday, claims the Lutherans were playing "under wraps," and that the Greenville school has plenty of power. The Lutherans have played a discouraging schedule against Temple, Carnegie Tech, W. & J. and other teams out of their class, but have showed plenty of fight in every game.

Last year the Lutherans defeated Westminster at Greenville by a long touchdown in the poorest football game of the season for both teams. For two years previous, Westminster was able to take the measure of the Greenville eleven. Saturday's game should be hard fought with the two outfits about evenly matched and both fighting to keep out of the cellar in the Tri-State Conference race.

Armistice Day Finds Nations Quite Peaceful

Nowhere On Two Hemispheres Is Heard Rattle Of War Or Revolt Guns

EUROPEAN ARENA IS VERY QUIET

Statesmen Of Various Countries Persist In Setting Stage For New War

By J. C. OESTREICHER
International News Service
Cable Editor.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—While rumors of discord are still heard throughout Europe, and statesmen of various nations profess to see the European stage again being set for another war, Armistice Day of 1930 finds the world at peace.

Nowhere in the two hemispheres is heard the clash of arms; nowhere are there vainglorious struggles on blood-stained battlefields. The guns of the revolt and the cannon of international conflict are for the present silent.

But Armistice day this year comes on the heels of many bitter struggles, all of them far removed from the European arena. South America is still quaking from the succession of internal revolts which spared hardly a single one of her prosperous and powerful countries. In the far east, China is but slowly returning to the path of peace after months of civil strife.

Europe Struggles.
Armistice day, set aside to commemorate the worst war in all the world's history and pay tribute to those who fell on its battlefield, finds Europe still struggling vainly to settle the many perplexing problems which remained after the last gun had belched death over France's war-torn fields.

At Geneva, the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations after 11 years, is still struggling to find a formula, a workable foundation upon which the league itself may be able to build an international disarmament structure.

Jealousy and distrust are still rife. Fears of revenge, of imperialistic expansion, of a new upheaval to undo what the treaty of Versailles accomplished in the realignment of European power, are making of the disarmament formula a Herculean task.

Discuss New Conflict.
By strange irony, the day on which the last war's horrors are brought home to the people of the world, again finds European statesmen discussing the possibility of a new conflict.

Extremists in Germany say that war, if necessary, should be resorted to in order to undo the "injustices" of the treaty of Versailles. Extremists in France answer that war would not be out of the question to prevent the impugning of France's honor by any attempts to revise this document.

Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain, speaking at a banquet in London, tells his hearers that the nations of the world failed to learn the lesson of peace from the last war.

"The old Adam is still rampant," he said. "Words are used which make us doubt how much the world has learned by the bitter, tragic experience of 1914 and 1918."

Intensive Probe Of Petroleum Industry Will Be Undertaken

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—The possibility of an intensive investigation of the American Petroleum Industry by the Federal Government loomed as a possibility today to members of the American Petroleum Institute, in session here.

Henry L. Doherty, a leader in the industry, yesterday made a demand for the working out of an immediate over-all national petroleum policy of a highly constructive nature.

Unless a "sound and sufficient" plan is worked out, he said he would petition the Attorney General and Congress for an official probe.

Four more officials and guards of Auburn prison came here today to join the hunt. State police have an airplane flying low over the forest carrying food in bags which will be dropped if the man is spotted.

Border Patrolmen Plead Guilty To Smuggling Liquor

Fifteen Charges Of Conspiracy Placed Against Three Border Patrolmen

(International News Service)

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 11.—Three border patrolmen were in jail here today awaiting sentence after pleading guilty to 15 charges of conspiracy to smuggle liquor across the Canadian border.

They are: Weldon J. Cheatham, Francis L. Coveney and Colin Morris, all members of the U. S. Border Patrol stationed at Moores, on the border line. They were indicted by the Federal grand jury and pleaded before Judge Frederick J. Bryant.

Charles E. Coolican, another patrolman, was also indicted and seven residents of Scioto also were named in bills voted by the grand jury. They were held for trial in Federal court starting next Monday.

In addition to these, seven other men were named in indictments but have not been arrested yet.

Arrest of the border patrolmen and the indictment of the others was the hardest blow ever struck by the Federal government at the alleged liquor smuggling operations along the Canadian border in New York state.

Wickersham Commission Denies Approving Constitutional Convention

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—A published report that the Wickersham law enforcement commission would recommend the calling of a constitutional convention to deal with the eighteenth amendment drew a denial from the commission today.

Judge Kenneth Lakin, one of the members, said the commission's statement of last Saturday covered the published report. In the Saturday statement the commission denied it had reached any conclusions and characterized all published reports to that effect as premature and misleading.

Oil Leases Made Without Fraud Is Ruling Of Judge

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 11.—Federal Judge Frank H. Norcross, of Nevada, today has ruled that no "fraud or illegality" had entered into the granting of three valuable oil leases to the Pan American company in Naval Petroleum reserve No. 1. The leases were granted by Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior.

The government contended, in suing to have the leases cancelled, that much of the same situation existed in this case as in the cancellation action against Edward L. Doheny and the Pan American company in the Elk Hills leases. This suit was won by the government.

Judge Norcross heard the oil-cancellation suit here last December. By his decision the dispute which has lasted since September 23, 1924, has been terminated and the Pan American company and its successors, the Richfield Oil Company, have won the battle in connection with property estimated to be worth in excess of $10,000,000.

Tunney Suit Trial Reveals Political Background Of Ring Game

As Gene Tunney Looks Testifying During $435,000 Suit Trial

By JACK SORDS
Central Press Sports Artist

The political picture behind the scenes of a heavyweight championship prize fight have at last been revealed in detail and gullible Mr. John H. Public, who pays for these fights, is at last getting a large earful of facts that he only guessed at before.

None other than Mr. James J. Tunney (formerly Gene) ex-heavyweight champion, is the lad who is largely responsible for the revealing. Mr. Tunney, you know, was made defendant in a $435,000 "back pay" suit filed by Tim Mara, New York promoter, who claimed Gene Tunney had agreed to pay him 25 percent of his earnings as champion for his (Mara's) services.

During the trial in New York correspondence between Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, and Tunney, and between the late Tex Rickard, promoter of the Tunney-Dempsey fight, and Jack Dempsey, have been read.

This correspondence predated the Tunney-Dempsey fight in Philadelphia in which Tunney won the world's heavyweight championship. In the Gibson correspondence there was a great deal of reference to mysterious political figures such as "the little man at city hall," "the Albany man," "fourteenth street man" and others. It was made evident in Gibson's letters that he was trying to interview the highest political figures in New York in order to swing sentiment of the New York boxing commission from a fight between Harry Wells, colored challenger, and Dempsey, to a Tunney-Dempsey fight.

Among those mentioned directly or by inference as objects of interest to gain their favor for a Tunney-Dempsey match were Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York, the then Governor Alfred E. Smith, Judge George W. Olvany, then Tammany Hall leader; Joseph V. McKee, president of New York board of aldermen; John H. McCooey, Brooklyn Tammany leader; United States Senator James Wadsworth, Sheriff Lester Patterson of the Bronx and others. Smith, the correspondence showed, was unmoved by pleas to aid in getting the fight through.

As one attorney for Mara said: "It seems everybody was appealed to but Calvin Coolidge."

And all these years old John H. Public has been thinking that a big fight was put on simply by a promoter and two managers getting together and talking things over! However, old John H. should have known better.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Rallies Are Shown In Early Stock Trading

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Rallies in the industrial stocks and utilities in the first hour today restored a good part of the ground lost in the last day or two. The recovery gained momentum just prior to the opening of the big board for a two-minute period in observance of Armistice Day, and the bulls in Wall street were hopeful that a lasting rally had been inaugurated.

Weakness in the rails and amusements upset the market in the first period. Fox Film was pushed off 3 points to 28½ and Warner Brothers broke under 14 as the selling wave in the theatrical stocks gained momentum. Baltimore and Ohio led the investment rails into lower ground, with a 2-point dip to 71. Allegheny Corp sold at 9.

The Public Utility stocks made a better showing than in the last few days. Consolidated Gas, Columbia Gas, North American, United Corporation and Public Service on N. J. rallied from 1 to 2½ points.

Shorts in Auburn auto were given a mild squeeze when that stock was rushed up to 72 for a gain of 6½ points. The Oils also made a comeback in the second hour, with Atlantic Refining and Standard of New Jersey in good demand. American Tel. and Tel. was again under pressure and broke to a new low at 184½ down 2½.

The Chicago Grain markets were closed, but the Winnipeg market showed a further loss of 1½ cents a bushel for wheat. Cotton lost about 50 cents a bale. Call money was in supply at 2 per cent.

REPORT FOR RESERVE FLYING DUTY

(L. to r.): Lieut. Christy Mathewson, son of the most beloved pitcher in the annals of baseball; and Lieut. Lucius R. Holbrook, Jr., son of Brig.-Gen. Holbrook, with their baggage, arriving at Mitchell Field, L. I., for two years of reserve flying duty. Both aspire to regular commissions.

U. S. ARMY'S OLDEST PILOT

Colonel C. C. Culver, United States Army, at fifty-eight, is the oldest pilot in that branch of the service. Culver didn't learn to fly until he was past forty years of age, and since 50, has 1,200 flying hours to his credit. He was pictured about to take off from Langley Field, of which he was once commandant.

HELD IN N. J. TORCH KILLING

Howard Swavely, left, in the district attorney's office, dictating his version of how his wife was fatally burned. Swavely's version, however, was entirely different from that of his wife, who before she died accused him of firing her night clothes so that he could collect $20,000 insurance.

You're the JUDGE

The Decision
The court held against Timpkins. The judges reasoned thus: By his conduct Timpkins had forfeited all rights to the custody and control of the child. Again, the grandfather was not obliged to permit anyone on his premises simply to attend the funeral. Timpkins had no inherent right to attend the funeral of the child, and the grandfather had every right to keep him off his premises.

Nature prompts only a certain type of people to practice birth control, and doubtless she knows best.

The G. O. P. expects losses, but nothing serious. It takes a lot of moisture to cause a landslide.

Wants Citizenship

Liberals throughout the country are interesting themselves in the fight of Prof. Douglas Clyde Macintosh of Yale university, above, for citizenship. He was denied citizenship because he refused to subscribe to the doctrine of "my country, right or wrong." John W. Davis, former Democratic presidential candidate, who is one of his attorneys, sees the case as having "far reaching importance."

American Air Aide Under Arrest in Brazil

Captain Orton Hoover, veteran American aviator, was arrested at Sao Paulo, Brazil, and is being held a close prisoner by the local provisional military government. There have been no definite charges lodged against Hoover, who has been aviation instructor to the Sao Paulo State Militia for the past seven years. It is said he dropped bombs on revolutionary troops.
